

GLASS SHOWER AT EIGHTH AND PINE
IN 45-MILE GALE

Wind Reaches Its Maximum Shortly After Noon and Huge Window Is Sucked Out and Dashed Over the Pavement, Making It Dangerous to Traffic.

SIGN BOARD DOWN AT TAYLOR AND DELMAR

Eyesore to Residents Tumbled Just After School Children, Playing, Marbles, Went Away—Hobble Skirt Only Safe Kind.

A gale out of the Northwest swept with increasing velocity over St. Louis Monday, after raging all night and doing much property damage. It reached its maximum force just after noon, when it achieved 45 miles an hour. During the night and day its greatest speed had been 42 miles an hour.

Often the wind, caught in canyon-like downtown streets, whirled into the semblance of a miniature whirlwind. Such a gust sucked the huge plate-glass windows out of the offices of the David T. Leaky House and Home Furnishing Co., at Eighth and Pine streets, doing $400 damage and scattering shivers of glass across the streets, so that vehicle traffic was stopped.

Traffic blocked on street. The section of glass on the Pine street side, was 49 by 12 feet; that on the Eighth street side, 20 by 12. Leaky summoned policemen, who warned passersby to keep to the other side of the street and turned traffic into other thoroughfares, while two remaining windows on Pine street were roped in, for fear they also would be sucked outward, as the others had been.

A double-decker signboard set diagonally across a vacant lot at Olive street and Taylor avenue was blown down in sections, falling at noon, until 200 feet it was prostrate. Residents in that neighborhood, who long had complained of the glaring and unsightly signs, watched it with open joy. Children from the Eugene Field School, who had been playing marbles under it, had just left there.

Downtown hunchbacks realized to the full the wind's frankness. It caught three girls walking east on Pine street from Broadway, and pushed them as with a gigantic hand along the pavement, while they laughed and cried out, a little frightened at their helplessness. The smooth sides of the Bank of Commerce Building afforded no hold for them.

James G. Cahill, a broker at 505 Olive street, happened to be in their path, and he spread out his arms, bracing himself like a football center rush, to check their progress. They bumped hard against him, steadied themselves and went away laughing.

A little later another woman, wearing a filmy black skirt, turned that corner and was caught in a strong eddy of wind. It tossed and lifted the skirt, revealing lingerie and silken hose. The woman was too busy trying to keep her hat on to attend to the rest of her clothes. She coasted ahead of the wind and got out of her predicament as quickly as she could.

Hobbies Grow Popular.

Those who wore hobbles were at an advantage, and the entire day was an argument for the bare skirt. Those so far out of date as to wear ample garments had the most embarrassing time in their excursions into the streets.

The fire wall on a one-story brick building at 111 South Broadway was blown down at 11:30 a. m. and the windows shattered. The McLaughlin Machine Co. occupies the building.

A 3-foot sign in front of 724 South Broadway was blown into the show window of the Bell Furniture Co.

The storm door at Edward Mannion's house, 121 South Broadway, was blown down.

The lightning service in a part of North St. Louis is impaired. There was considerable property damage.

Telephone poles and wires were blown down, trees uprooted and fences destroyed.

The wind began to blow at 11:30 p. m. and continued with an average velocity of 45 miles an hour until 2 a. m.

From 61 degrees at 5 p. m. Sunday the temperature dropped to the freezing point, 32 degrees, at 7 a. m. Monday, and there is more cold weather to come.

The storm started in the Dakotas and Nebraska and swept over the upper and middle Mississippi valleys. It is now central over Michigan.

Monday's weather map showed that it was snowing in Springfield, Ill., Peoria, Ill., and Dubuque, Io. Temperatures were below freezing all over Missouri.

Weather Forecaster Hayes says there was a killing frost.

Prof. William Tinsley, superintendent of Shaw's Garden, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday that although the temperature had fallen to the freezing point, no damage had been done to plants in the garden.

"Good morning," said Winter. "I just dropped in to see if that United States is really dead."

"If that's all you're here for, you needn't linger," replied the suburbanite. "You can be on your way. I want to plant my garden."

"I didn't want to come back," said Winter apologetically. "But my old friend Eolus the fellow that makes the wind, insisted that we play a return engagement in St. Louis."

"Why?"

"Well, Eolus heard about those new-style flat-brimmed hats the men are wearing. He couldn't resist the temptation to have fun with them. They roll a mile when the wind gets behind them."

Official forecast: Fair tonight and Tuesday; colder tonight, with lowest temperature about 28 degrees above rising temperature Tuesday.

Missouri—Fair tonight, probably Tuesday; colder in east portion tonight; warmer Tuesday.

Illinois—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; preceded by unsettled in north portion tonight; colder tonight.

CHIEF JUSTICE IS MODEST

Wants No Distinction Shown Between Himself and Associates.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—No more will be heard the announcement: "The Chief Justice and the associate justices of the Supreme Court of the United States," as the members of the highest tribunal in the land file in to take their places. The modesty of Chief Justice White forbids.

Following the death of Chief Justice Fuller and during the time when Associate Justice Harlan presided, the court was hailed merely as "the Supreme Court of the United States." That the new form was good enough for him was the decision of Chief Justice White.

MOBERLY SANITARIUM FIRE

Patients Barely Escape From Institution; Ozark Has a $50,000 Loss.

By Associated Press.
AURORA, Mo., March 27.—Dr. D. E. Morris, a prominent physician, and his four children, were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed the Morris home, three miles southeast of here.

Members of the family were asleep on the second floor of the house, and when awakened the flames were about them.

Finding escape cut off, Dr. Morris threw a bed mattress from the window to the ground. Lowering his wife and a year-old daughter to safety, the physician rushed into an adjoining room to awaken the four other children. He never returned. The bodies were found in the ruins.

$65,000 LOSS IN
FIRE AT MOBERLY

MOBERLY, Mo., March 27.—Fire in J. W. Ingram's grocery this morning threatened the entire business center of this city. The high wind carried the flames from building to building and J. W. Ingram's grocery, Jesse Gregory's furniture store, William Mangus' drug store, the Mayflower Dancing Hall and Dr. C. W. Mangus' sanitarium were destroyed.

Several persons in the sanitarium escaped only a few seconds before the walls fell. The loss is estimated at $65,000.

OZARK, Mo., March 27.—Fire which threatened the destruction of this town last night, caused a loss estimated at $50,000. Five business buildings were destroyed. The cause is unknown.

Taft Likely to Follow Adverse Finding of Attorney-General in Bankers' Cases.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—From sources close to the President it was ascertained today that the pardon appeals of the two convicted bankers, Charles W. Morse of New York and John R. Walsh of Chicago, undoubtedly will be denied.

It is said that the Attorney-General's recommendation in both cases is adverse and that the President will follow his findings.

BULLETIN 208

MRS. ROY E. BURBANK.

STACK'S FAMILY
SUED BY FORMER WIFE FOR $50,000

Mother of Kidnaped Boy Also Asks Habeas Corpus in Effort to Find Him.

Mrs. Orson Allen Stack-Burbank filed two suits Monday, one for a writ of habeas corpus for John King Stack III, her 13-year-old son by her first marriage, and one for $50,000 against Richard B. Stack, her first husband, and all the members of his family.

The suits were filed just after the criminal case against Stack, on a charge of kidnaping the boy, was continued in Judge Taylor's court until Tuesday.

In the damage suit, Mrs. Burbank charges that she spent $10,000 in her search for the boy, and that she has suffered greatly from being deprived of his companionship. She makes her former husband's whole family defendants with him on the ground that they conspired to keep the boy from her.

They are Loretta, Nannie, Cecilla, Ruth, Helen, J. K. Stack and his wife, J. K. Stack Jr. and Morris S. Smith.

She asks for $25,000 actual and as much punitive damages. The first intimation Stack had of the writ of habeas corpus suit and the damage suit was when he was informed at the Southern Hotel by Post-Dispatch reporter. It took a few minutes for him to clearly comprehend the meaning of the actions, and then his only comment was:

"Well, what do you think of that?"

Judge Graham, to whom the habeas corpus suit was presented, suggested that certain technical amendments be made, and said he would then make an order under it.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Rudolph became excited when he found, after Stack's kidnaping case was called, that some depositions had been filed for the defense. He said he had never heard of them.

Former Judge Thomas B. Harvey of Stack's counsel said he had given Circuit Attorney Jones legal notice when the depositions were filed, March 22, but Rudolph said he hadn't been told about them, and asked Judge Taylor to suppress them until he could look over them, which Judge Taylor did.

Stack's former wife is now Mrs. Roy E. Burbank. She was not in the courtroom the case was continued, and then left the courtroom with her present husband.

Stack is a rich lumberman, living now in Escanaba, Mich. After John King Stack III disappeared, Mrs. Burbank traveled 20,000 miles in search of him. The boy's whereabouts is not known to her. Stack declines to discuss it.

Mr. and Mrs. Stack were married in 1902, and she obtained a divorce at Spokane, Wash., Dec. 13, 1908, the custody of the boy being awarded to her. She married her present husband a year later.

While Mr. and Mrs. Burbank were honeymooning in Mexico City, the boy was left in St. Louis with two of her sisters, Mrs. Cornish Bailey, now of Chicago, and Mrs. J. W. Allen of Nashville. They were living then at the Vrooman Apartments.

Stack called there and spent the day with his son. In the evening, over their protests, he left the house with the boy. The boy's whereabouts is not known to her. Last June trace was obtained of Stack and the boy in Montreal, Canada, and Mrs. Burbank hastened there, but when she arrived both had disappeared.

POLICE HELPLESS TO AID WOMAN AS
HOUSE IS STONED

Can't Find Bombarders in Dark but Boy Ball Players Are Suspected.

Policemen guarded Mrs. Annie Robbins' home, at 4286 Blair avenue, Sunday night. One of them waited within, and at places about the house others stood. They were waiting to see whether anyone would throw stones at the house, as they had the night before.

Presently a rock crashed through a window. There was startled inquiry among the policemen. No one could tell just where the stone came from, the night being dark. The stone nearly hit the policeman standing inside talking to Mrs. Robbins.

After that several stones were thrown at the house, and the police did not succeed in finding out where they came from. They were mystified and somewhat uneasy. Search of the fences, trees and houses near by was fruitless.

Small boys in the neighborhood are responsible for the bombardment, Mrs. Robbins thinks.

Mrs. Robbins had trouble last summer with boys living around her home because they played ball in the street in front of the place, endangering her windows.

There was a game Saturday afternoon, and while Mrs. Robbins was standing in her front yard the ball flew into it and rolled to her feet. She picked it up and refused to return it.

"We'll get even with you," the boys cried. They had no other ball, and the game was at a standstill.

Kept Ball 15 Minutes.

Mrs. Robbins' sister, Mrs. Minnie Knollhoff, who lives next door, advised her to return the ball, and after 15 minutes she did so.

The house was bombarded from 7 to 11 o'clock that evening, but the stones were thrown against the walls, and did no damage. Sunday evening a second bombardment began at the same hour, and Mrs. Robbins telephoned for policemen from the Page Boulevard District.

Eight were sent to her home. Seven window panes were broken. At 11 p. m. the stone throwing ceased.

CLEAR CHAIN OF WIRELESS

Stations Extended From Maine to Florida, Says Report.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A clear chain of wireless telegraph stations extending from Maine to Florida is now included in the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co.'s system, the annual report of the company for the last year, made public today, shows.

New stations were erected during the year south of New York and many coastwise vessels have been added to the fleet equipped with the Marconi system.

WATER DEPARTMENT
FOREMAN ARRESTED;
DUMMY ON PAYROLL

Peter McGauley Boss at Chain of Rocks, Is Held on a Charge of Defrauding City Treasury.

WORKER DENIES HE WAS HIRED AS RECORD SHOWS

Discovery Made as Part of General Investigation, Following Resignation of Commissioner Adkins and Charge Against Him in Suit.

Peter McGauley, foreman at the Chain of Rocks pumping station of the Water Department, was arrested Monday, after it was found that a dummy had been carried on the payroll for three months. This action was part of the general investigation being made of the Water Department, following the resignation of Ben C. Adkins as commissioner, and the charge made in a civil suit that he fraudulently certified to vouchers in favor of the City Construction Co. for work which was not done.

Detective Sullivan went Monday to the Chain of Rocks in an automobile with Robert Burkham, the Mayor's secretary, to arrest McGauley and take him to Central Police Station.

On reaching headquarters McGauley was taken at once into Chief of Detectives Smith's office and questioned behind closed doors. Burkham said McGauley had no statement to make, but Sullivan said no opportunity had been given to him to make a statement.

City Paid Him $130.

Tausig told a Post-Dispatch reporter that McGauley had carried Charles Schantz on the payroll 11 days in January with a team at $4 a day; 11 days in December at the same salary, and that in November the city paid $51 in Schantz's name.

"Schantz told us," said Tausig, "that he did no work for the city either in December or in January, and that in November he received only $30.50. We laid this information today before Assistant Circuit Attorney Roskopf, and I suppose he caused McGauley's arrest."

McGauley lives at 5316 Bulwer avenue. His salary is $50 a month.

McGauley has been employed by the city eight years as foreman of the supply and purifying department at the Chain of Rocks, and employs from 40 to 50 men as occasion arises. He has a team of his own and hires others with teams to cart dirt away from the place, keep ice off the buildings and do other work about the grounds.

Still Investigating.

Since Water Commissioner Adkins' resignation, Tausig has instructed Earl J. Howes, a special agent, to make a special investigation of all the branches of the Water Department. He said that the items named were all that had been found against McGauley "as yet."

"The investigation of the Chain of Rocks station is still under way," he said. "I do not know whether we will find anything further there."

"When the payroll was taken to the Chain of Rocks, the timekeeper there signed it. He says that McGauley instructed him to sign for Schantz's money, and turn it over to him (McGauley) for delivery. The timekeeper did this without suspicion."

Adkins is Controversial.

Adkins resigned as head of the Water Department two months ago, after Tausig found that he had been buying concrete water boxes from the City Construction Co. and paying for them with vouchers for "extra labor at 30 cents an hour." President Reber of the Board of Public Improvements had ruled against the purchase of the boxes, and the vouchers would not have been signed by Tausig, he said, if he had known what the money was for.

The construction company sued the city for money it said was due on its contract, and the city filed a counterclaim for more than $2000, which, it said, had been paid to the company on "fraudulent vouchers" by Adkins for materials and work for which the city should have paid nothing.

Telling of Camera Secrets Urged.

VITERBO, Italy, March 27.—Abbate-maggio, the Camorrist informer, who exposed the workings of the terrorists on the witness stand on Friday, has received numerous letters urging him to continue his revelations in the interest of his country. Some of the writers beg him not to fear the vengeance of the Camorra, as all the world will support and defend him.

GIRL WON BY A
STREET PROPOSAL
ELOPES IN STORM

Miss Neville Greenway Jilts Romance and Weds Man She Met Two Weeks Ago.

Miss Neville Greenway, daughter of Dr. T. G. Greenway of 1468 Blackstone avenue, motored to Clayton at 3 a. m. Monday with Louis B. Thompson to get married. The windstorm was at its height, and the ride along dark country roads added a thrill to their romance. After they got to Clayton they decided to go on to Justice Werremeyer's home, 10 miles beyond.

Werremeyer, awake because the storm had blown in two windows of his home, heard them on the porch, threw a robe overcoat over his pajamas and went to the door.

"What to get married," said Thompson.

"Get a license?" Werremeyer asked.

"No, we will get this later in the morning. You may rest assured we will attend to it. But we want you to marry us now."

Werremeyer is Obdurate.

Werremeyer explained that this was irregular and entirely out of the question.

"But you must marry us," interrupted Miss Greenway. "We came all the way out here just to have you do it. And besides, we must get married tonight."

Werremeyer was firm, and the couple departed. At 10 a. m. they returned in an automobile to Clayton, obtained a license and the ceremony was performed.

"The minute I saw Miss Greenway I determined to marry her," Thompson told a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"Yes, he came to St. Louis only two weeks ago," said the bride. "He went to live at 1468 Blackstone and saw me passing. And Sunday night a week ago he got Charlie Stedert to introduce him to me."

"And Wednesday I proposed," said Thompson. "We were walking along King's highway, near Forest Park."

"And although I was engaged to another man," said the bride, "I accepted him, because there was something about him the other man lacked. No, I'm not going to tell the other man's name. He will suffer enough as it is."

Hadn't we better telephone to your family?" Thompson asked.

Mrs. Thompson thought that was a good plan. She called up her mother, who was so overcome that she dropped the telephone. A married sister, Mrs. Raymond McDonald, proved to have more fortitude. Elopements did not seem so momentous to her, because she eloped to Clayton and was married there two months ago.

Mrs. Thompson, tall and blonde, with violet eyes, wore a black velvet coat, coral dress and diamond valiere. Her husband is a bond salesman. They left Clayton to go to her home and tell in person about their adventure.

MINISTERS VOTE DISAPPROVAL OF GLENNON SERMON

Resolution Replies to Archbishop in Matter of Religious Education.

SUGGESTION TO THE POPE

Protestant Clergymen Think He Should Tone Down Utterances of Prelates.

The Evangelical Alliance, an association of Protestant ministers, at its monthly meeting Monday at the Y. M. C. A. Building, adopted resolutions condemning the utterances of Archbishop Glennon in a sermon at St. Joseph's Convent, Carondelet, Sunday, March 19, in which he was quoted as saying: "The world today is practically divided into two camps. On one side is the Catholic church, standing for the religious training of children; on the other, the rest of the world, practically united in opposition to the Catholic church, and consequently in opposition to all religious instruction and against religion itself."

Amusement Expressed.
Omitting the preamble, the resolutions were:

"Resolved, That we are amazed to find this spirit in the city of St. Louis in the year of our Lord 1911;

"Resolved, That we congratulate ourselves that the only ecclesiastical fire of which we are in danger today is that kindled by the burning words of our Archbishop, who conspires us in his thought to the Kingdom of Satan;

"Resolved, That we believe, since Protestants are universally tolerant and kindly in their feelings toward the Catholics, that the Roman Catholics also have sufficiently grown in charity and good will to permit Protestants to live and move and have their being, labeled as so many representatives of the Kingdom of Satan;

"Resolved, That we desire to put on record our disapproval of the classification Archbishop Glennon has made of the Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Episcopalians, Jews, common schools and all educational institutions and colleges in this country that are not Roman Catholic;

Suggestion to the Pope.

"Resolved, That in our judgment, if Pope Pius X is concerned to have the representatives of his church continue in the favor of the masses of the American people, that he should have, during the past 50 years, it becomes him to instruct the archbishops of his church to be a little sweeter and kinder and more tolerant toward those bodies of our population who have civilized the country and made it possible for the Roman Catholics to enjoy privileges they no longer know in Mexico, France, Portugal and other countries where there was once the established religion;

"Resolved, That we urge upon the laymen of that church, to use their influence with their clerical representatives against the use of such tempers and speeches on their part, calculated to disturb the relations of good will we desire to see established between all Christian peoples."

The resolutions bore the signatures of the Revs. John B. Toomay, J. Layton Mauze, S. H. Valnright, S. E. Ewing and Ralph Edward Alexander. They were offered from the floor by the Rev. J. Layton Mauze. When the question was put on the adoption of the resolutions by the Rev. W. J. McKeltrick, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who presided, it seemed that the vote was unanimous.

"If there is anybody here," the chairman began, "who would not wish to endorse this resolution?"

His voice was drowned by hand-clapping, and he did not finish the sentence.

Prayers Catholic Work.
Earlier in the meeting the Rev. Mr. Mauze, without referring directly to the Archbishop's sermon, advocated a permanent committee to answer attacks on the religious convictions and the morals of the public, and to have an eye on public morals. He said the Catholics were doing noble work along these lines, and were inviting the co-operation of the Protestants.

When Archbishop Glennon was told of the action of the Evangelical Alliance, he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "My remarks have no reference to my good friends of the Evangelical Alliance. They had reference to religious education throughout the world. Religious education has been suppressed in France, and is liable to be suppressed in Italy."

"The greater part of the world is under the standard of an educational movement that is largely without religion. The Catholic Church is enrolled under the banner of religious training. It believes in it. It teaches it."

Not Outwitting Them.
In regard to the local features, the members of the Evangelical Alliance might read an article I wrote for the Cincinnati Christian Advocate in reference to the same sermon. They wrote me about it and I answered them.

"I am not prepared to enter into any discussion with the members of the Evangelical Alliance. If they want to know what I said, it would be better for them to know it from me. Then they would be sure to have it correctly."

"I would say that the efforts of evangelical bodies in the interest of Christian education, in the form of Christian schools and colleges, have my sympathy and approval, and my remarks were not intended to outwit them. What I said had a much broader significance."

Tom Johnson Is Better.
CLEVELAND, O., March 27.—"Mr. Johnson's condition is good," was the statement issued today from the sick room of former Mayor Tom L. Johnson. Last night he was reported not so well. A restful night, however, enabled him to gain some of his lost strength.

Gale at 45 Miles an Hour Causes Damage in the City

In Missouri were injured," he said. "For the last week the nights have been unusually cold and the buds have developed so slowly that they are not now sufficiently advanced to be injured, even by a killing frost."

There is another storm in the extreme Northwest, he says, but there is a chance that it will be broken up before it reaches St. Louis.

FENCE LEVELED AT INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Police Prevent Escapes—Patrol Boxes, Lighting Plants and Telephones Made Useless.

The wind lowered a section of fence on the Virginia avenue side of the Industrial School and shook the buildings with such violence the juvenile inmates became terror stricken. Assistant Superintendent Fairbank telephone Night Chief Gillaspay 100 feet of the fence was on the ground. Three policemen were sent to guard the institution and prevent possible escapes.

The Magnolia Avenue and Angelica street districts, in the southwestern and northwestern parts of the city, were cut off from the police and fire telephone system and were thrown into darkness by the wind's assault on overhead wires. Patrol call boxes at Grand and Park, Compton and Lafayette, Grand and Lafayette, Twenty-ninth and Russell, Compton and Park, Lawrence and Folson, Vista and Tiffany, Vandeventer and McCree, Boyle and Manchester, Ninth and Bremen, Eleventh and Bremen and along Mound and Chambers at Broadway, Tenth and Twelfth, were out of commission as a result of the wind's playfulness.

Huge billboards were ripped from the roof of a building at Eighteenth and St. Charles streets and carried into the street. A section of roof was blown from the building at 705 Washington avenue.

Tower Grove Park was stripped of its lighting system and many trees were whisked from their trunks in Forest Park.

A storage shed at Grand and Park avenues was lifted from its base and carried into the middle of the street, where it was left standing on its roof.

Fifty feet of fence was torn from the ground around Perkins' quarry, at Twentieth and Peorose streets.

A smokestack on top of the factory of Hauswiler & Schiltner, 1811 Chouteau avenue, was broken in two. The damage amounted to $300.

The Laclede avenue fence of Handlan's Park, Grand and Laclede avenues, was swept into the gutter.

A stable at 424 Chouteau avenue was tumbled to the ground.

Windows were broken at 2201 Market street, Young's flower store at 1406 Olive street, and Dr. Augustus Peters' drug store at 834 Alabama avenue.

DEATH FOLLOWS QUARREL ABOUT BRAND OF BEER

Christopher Merkel Who Was Injured by Fall at Saengerbund, Expires.

Christopher Merkel died Monday at the city hospital from injuries received March 23 at the Harmonie Saengerbund, 633 Allen avenue. His right thigh and right forearm were broken, and on account of his age—62—he did not survive.

Merkel said when he was taken to the hospital the day after he was hurt that he had quarreled with Charles Erlich of 1416 Corn place about a change in the brand of beer used at the Saengerbund and that Erlich had thrown him down the steps.

But when Erlich was arrested Merkel changed his story. He said he had quarreled with Erlich and that Erlich had put him out of the room, but that he had fallen down the steps.

Erlich told a similar story. He said he led Merkel to the head of the steps and let him there. Other members of the Saengerbund said that after Erlich returned to the room they heard Merkel falling.

Merkel was taken to his home, 1725 South Seventh street, by two of the members and treated that night by Dr. W. A. Fries of 1344 South Broadway. On his advice the injured man was taken the next day to the hospital.

Fortner's Pardon Seems Improbable.

Gravity of Offense and Independence of Wife Expected to Have Weight With Governor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 27.—The petition signed by all the State officials and State senators of Arkansas sent to Gov. Hadley of Missouri, asking the pardon or parole of M. Dwight Fortner, serving a term of two years in the Jefferson City Penitentiary, for forgery, has not been received here.

When it arrives there it will be turned over to Pardon Attorney Chambers. It is not believed here the Governor will consider an early release for Fortner, in view of the fact he has served but a few months of his sentence. The gravity of his offense and the fact Mrs. Fortner is not dependent upon her husband for support, it is thought, will also operate against his release.

Circuit Attorney Seebert Jones says he will not recommend Fortner's pardon. Fortner was convicted on one of a number of indictments growing out of irregular transactions in St. Louis. His wife, one of the daughters of A. H. Handlan, stood by him through his trial and is now supporting herself by managing a hotel at Eldorado, Ark.

LAUGHLIN ALLOWED $935

Judge Muench in the Circuit Court Monday allowed Attorney Randolph Laughlin $935 for fees and expenses as counsel for Mrs. Ella Mulholland Pickel in her suit against Frederick J. Pickel for maintenance.

Laughlin had asked for $127.50. Though saying that this claim was not excessive, Judge Muench in his decision expressed his opinion that it would be to the best interests of the litigants to reduce the claim in view of the expenses which already have been incurred in the case.

MAP METER IS STOLEN

Burglars who entered the automobile supply house of Ben Gerdeman, 430 Olive street, after 1 a. m. Monday, by prying open a basement door, stole 100 two-cent stamps, a revolver and a Jones live map meter. They failed to open the safe, but broke the handle off.

The meter is said by the police to be the only one of its kind in St. Louis. Attached to an automobile, it traces on a map the route taken by the automobile, and is used for path finding purposes.

LIVED AT FRIEND'S RESIDENCE, PAID NO BOARD; HAD $5000

Woman's Estate Now Being Sued
by School Supervisor Who Supported Her.

Miss Kate L. Cunningham, supervisor of special schools for the Board of Education, is suing the estate of her mother's bridesmaid, Bridget Gallagher, for $500, which she claims as payment for board and for services as a nurse.

Judge Holtcamp, in the Probate Court, Monday took the claim under advisement.

Miss Cunningham's attorney, Thomas E. Mulvihill, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Bridget Gallagher, though not a relative and not a servant, lived in the Cunningham household 47 years. She died Aug. 22 last.

Mrs. Cunningham died 10 years ago and Miss Cunningham became head of the household. Bridget Gallagher continued to live there, the general impression being that she had no means.

A search of her effects after her death revealed she owned $5000 worth of negotiable securities. It was known that she occasionally did dressmaking and sewing, but it was not thought that she had money.

Merkel was taken to his home, 1725 South Seventh street, by two of the members and treated that night by Dr. W. A. Fries of 1344 South Broadway. On his advice the injured man was taken the next day to the hospital.

Fortner's Pardon Seems Improbable.

Gravity of Offense and Independence of Wife Expected to Have Weight With Governor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 27.—The petition signed by all the State officials and State senators of Arkansas sent to Gov. Hadley of Missouri, asking the pardon or parole of M. Dwight Fortner, serving a term of two years in the Jefferson City Penitentiary, for forgery, has not been received here.

When it arrives there it will be turned over to Pardon Attorney Chambers. It is not believed here the Governor will consider an early release for Fortner, in view of the fact he has served but a few months of his sentence. The gravity of his offense and the fact Mrs. Fortner is not dependent upon her husband for support, it is thought, will also operate against his release.

Circuit Attorney Seebert Jones says he will not recommend Fortner's pardon. Fortner was convicted on one of a number of indictments growing out of irregular transactions in St. Louis. His wife, one of the daughters of A. H. Handlan, stood by him through his trial and is now supporting herself by managing a hotel at Eldorado, Ark.

LAUGHLIN ALLOWED $935

Judge Muench in the Circuit Court Monday allowed Attorney Randolph Laughlin $935 for fees and expenses as counsel for Mrs. Ella Mulholland Pickel in her suit against Frederick J. Pickel for maintenance.

Laughlin had asked for $127.50. Though saying that this claim was not excessive, Judge Muench in his decision expressed his opinion that it would be to the best interests of the litigants to reduce the claim in view of the expenses which already have been incurred in the case.

MAP METER IS STOLEN

Burglars who entered the automobile supply house of Ben Gerdeman, 430 Olive street, after 1 a. m. Monday, by prying open a basement door, stole 100 two-cent stamps, a revolver and a Jones live map meter. They failed to open the safe, but broke the handle off.

The meter is said by the police to be the only one of its kind in St. Louis. Attached to an automobile, it traces on a map the route taken by the automobile, and is used for path finding purposes.

BILL SIGNED FOR NAMING BI-PARTY ELECTION BOARDS

Hadley Indorses Measure for St.
Louis, Pointing to Unconstitutional Clause.

FAVORS OTHER PROVISIONS

Dominant Parties to Submit Names From Which Four Are to Be Chosen.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 27.—Gov. Hadley today signed the bills creating bi-partisan election boards for Kansas City and St. Louis. The former was introduced by Senator Casey and the latter by Senator Kinney. The laws are similar in character.

The St. Louis bill provides for a board of four members, two to be appointed from each of the dominant parties by the Governor from a list of six names submitted by the State committees. The provision requiring the Governor to appoint the members of the boards from lists of names submitted by the State committees is unconstitutional under previous decisions of the Supreme Court.

This provision was the suggestion of Joe Shannon, chairman of the Democratic State Committee. He came to Jefferson City today, which the Democrats were trying to put through a caucus measure providing for the election of election commissioners, two from each party. At the same time Representative Lloyd of St. Louis had a bill pending in the Legislature providing for the appointment of bi-partisan boards for Kansas City and St. Louis by the Governor.

Measures Like Lloyd Bill.
Shannon switched the Democrats and they prepared and introduced the measure signed today, which are similar to the Lloyd bill approved by Governor Hadley, except that these contain the provision that the commissioners must be taken from names suggested by the party committees.

The laws repealed by the bills signed by the Governor today provided for two commissioners of the party controlling the governorship and one of the next highest party. It was enacted by Democratic majorities of 20-10.

Democrats are charging the State constitution that the minority commissioner on the board in St. Louis was not permitted by the majority to name judges and clerks of elections nor to have a voice in the preliminary preparation for the election. In other years Republicans made similar charges.

The bills provide that the Secretary of the Commission shall be selected from one of the parties and the President of the board from the other. The term of office provided is three years.

Pointed Out by Fortner.
"The provision," says the Executive, "that the Governor shall make his appointment from six eligible persons who shall be recommended by the State Committee of the Republican and Democratic parties, is under the decision of the Supreme Court, unconstitutional, for the reason that it impairs the right of the chief executive to make appointment of executive officers, by delegating that power to a non-official body."

"The bills therefore simply provide for the appointment of a bipartisan Board of Election Commissioners in Kansas City and St. Louis, to be chosen from each of the two leading political parties. In this regard I consider the bills proper and advisable measures. Under the provisions of our present statutes, the bipartisan idea in the selection of boards of election commissioners is provided for, but in an imperfect, and, at times, an unsatisfactory manner."

ABSCONDER IS CAPTURED

Cashier Declares He Is Tired of Dodging.

MOBILE, Ala., March 27.—Russell Liddell, absconding cashier of the First National Bank of Camden, Ala., was arrested here last night by Deputy United States Marshal Waites and locked up in an indictment found against him by the United States grand jury several months ago. His delinquencies are said to amount to $5000. Since that time he has traveled around the United States and in Central America and was arrested while at an infirmary here undergoing treatment.

He said he was tired of dodging and wanted to give up.

Virginia Detective Had Expected to Take Trip to Springfield,
Mo., to Make Arrest.

Detective J. J. S. Branch of Suffolk, Va., dropped into Police Headquarters for a visit to Chief of Detectives Smith Sunday afternoon. "What are you here for?" asked the Chief.

"I'm on my way to Springfield, Mo., to arrest Herman Smith, accused of passing worthless checks aggregating $4000. He denies his guilt. He will go back with Detective Branch without extradition."

The Chief called Detective Joyce and whispered in his ear. Joyce went to the holdover and returned with Herman Smith. Branch was greatly surprised. "I thought he was in Springfield," he said. "He would have been if we hadn't caught him," said the Chief. Smith was arrested at the office of an automobile company where he had just obtained a position as salesman. The St. Louis police acted on a telegram from authorities at Weldon, N. C., not knowing that Branch was on his trail. Smith is accused of passing worthless checks aggregating $4000. He denies his guilt. He will go back with Detective Branch without extradition.

PREACHER COMMENDS PLAY

Delivers Sermon Advising Parishioners to See Drama.

A press-agent sermon on "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," in which Forbes-Robertson is to appear next week in St. Louis, was delivered Sunday night by the Rev. Dr. Jacob E. Meeker at the Compton Hill Congregational Church. He commended the play, which has never been seen in St. Louis, and advised his congregation to see it.

Stare critics, he said, had been surprised at the attendance at the play, for there had come to be a settled belief that plays of such sort could not show sufficient receipts to keep them going. Their attitude, he said, had been considerably like that of opponents of the theater, who have said nothing good could come out of the playhouse.

Hartford-Saxony Rugs

Throughout This Week on Our Fourth Floor
A Comprehensive Exhibit and Special Sale of the Above Remarkable American Rugs

There is no gainsaying the fact that these rugs are the finest floorcovering production of American looms, and that in intrinsic value and artistic design and coloring they vie with the product of the Orient.

The glorious color effects and wonderful designs found in the choicest Serebends, Cashmeres, Kazaks, Oushaks, Bokharas, Gorevans and other Oriental Rugs are almost absolutely reproduced—so closely, indeed, as to deceive acknowledged experts.

Like Orientals, age and hard usage soften the colorings and give to the rugs a luster and mellowness that wins admiration.

For many years "Hartford-Saxony" Rugs have been used in homes and in public and private institutions. These furnish abundant testimony to their wonderful durability under the most adverse wearing conditions.

Our First Floor from the Tenth Street Entrance will be found covered with "Hartford-Saxony" Rugs during this great week of exhibition and sale.

Any size desired from a 2.3x3 at $3.50 to the 11.3x15 at $85.00 is carried in stock. Unusual sizes can be made to order inside of ten to fourteen days.

FORTY-MILE WIND FANS BLAZE AS 4 STRUCTURES BURN

14 Flats Saved by Firemen, Handicapped by Lack of Water, Tearing Off Wood-Work, in Fourth Fire in Few Months in Schofield Place Near City.

40. RESIDENTS AID FIGHT ON FLAMES

Assistant Fire Chief's Hair Is Scorched in Spectacular Night Blaze Attracting Spectators in Autos From St. Louis.

The fourth fire within a few months in Schofield place, two miles west of the city limits, on an extension of Page boulevard, at 4 a. m. Monday, destroyed four buildings and six small outbuildings. Fourteen two-story flats were saved from the flames by firemen, who tore away porches, fences and exposed wood portions of the buildings.

The fire was fanned by a wind, which at times had a velocity of about forty miles an hour. There is no available water supply in Schofield place, and the firemen were compelled to rely solely on two small chemical engines.

Spectators From Afar. The fire started in the grocery store of Bon Signore Leggio, 1234 Page boulevard, and spread to the Midland Building, a large two-story brick. From there it spread to a feed store conducted by J. J. Surkamp in a new two-story frame building, and to the building occupied by the Midland fire department.

Surkamp suffered the loss of his feed store by fire five weeks ago, and his new building was completed last week. At the former fire the Midland Building was damaged, and the fire department's building was destroyed. A new fire department building had also just been completed.

The glare of the fire attracted fully 1500 persons to the scene, men and women coming from farm houses and surrounding towns, and a number of persons from the city going out in automobiles when they saw the sky lighted by what appeared to be a great conflagration.

Fire Engine Is Saved. The engine house of the Midland volunteer fire department was half a block from where the fire started. Without waiting for the volunteers, persons living in the neighborhood hauled out the chemical engine but did not know how to use it. The engine house burned, but the engine was saved. The University City fire department responded to a call but was too late to be of service.

By the time it arrived the four buildings were practically a total loss, and the attention of the firemen was directed toward saving the adjoining flats. The lack of water handicapped the firemen, and they could do effective work only by tearing away wood portions of buildings, which were inflammable.

Forty residents of the flats left their homes and helped the firemen extinguish the fire. Mrs. G. Schneider, who lives in a flat near the fire, packed all her clothing and moved her furniture near the door. She said it was the fifth time she had done this in a few months.

Loss Placed at $10,000. Mrs. Sophia Tiernan, owner of the Midland Building, served hot coffee to the firemen at 5 a. m., after they had worked more than an hour in the cold wind.

Walter Glover, Assistant Chief of the Midland Fire Department, suffered burns about his head. His hair and eyelashes were scorched.

The loss is estimated by the owners to be in excess of $10,000. Mrs. Schneider's son, Elmer, 17 years old, was most concerned about his hen and 17 chickens in the barn. He placed them in a basket, carried them to his room and put the basket with the hen and chicks in his bed under a cover.

FIRES 4 TIMES AT BURGLAR

Man Robbed Before Was Prepared for Intruder.

Robert Erskine has a hole in the hallway at his home, 446 West Belle place, at daybreak Sunday. He arrested himself and went downstairs. Near the front door he saw an intruder.

He commanded the man to hold up his hands. The burglar ran out of the door and Erskine fired, but he kept on running. Erskine fired three more shots as the man ran down the street, but apparently missed each time. Erskine was robbed a few months ago by the "Candy Robber."

TOO ACTIVE IN POLITICS

Michael J. Dumphy, an East St. Louis detective, resigned Monday when he was assigned to office duty. For the past seven years Dumphy and his partner, John Healy, have been working outside. They were campaigning for Maurice V. Joyce for Mayor, and Dumphy declared that he was assigned to office duty to keep him out of politics.

The administration faction is supporting Charles S. Lambert for Mayor, and was displeased with Dumphy's activity in behalf of Joyce.

WEALTHY BARONESS WHO FLED WITH SOLDIER AFTER A DANCE

B. T. WASHINGTON PRAISES ULRICH FOR BEATING HIM

Negro Educator Calls Assailant Manly After Speech Which Whites Cheer.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Booker T. Washington, negro educator, addressed a large audience in the Broad Street Theater here yesterday on "The Moral Uplift of a Race," his first public address since he was attacked last week in New York, and his audience, composed almost exclusively of white people, showed sympathy with him by frequent applause.

After the lecture, in an interview, he spoke of his gratitude for the manner in which his friends in all parts of the country had come to his support and said he believed Ulrich did right in attacking him.

Albert Ulrich, who attacked Washington, pleaded in defense that he believed the educator was prowling in a hallway. Washington intimated here that proceedings against Ulrich would be dropped, but declared this a matter to which his lawyers would attend. He said he could not be sure they would allow him to retire from the prosecution.

"I believe Mr. Ulrich was justified in attacking not only me, but any other man under similar circumstances," said Washington. "I was in the hall of the house and was peering at the nameplates on the doors in an effort to find one of my business acquaintances."

"After the charges had been brought I learned that Ulrich had a daughter, and that several efforts had been made to kidnap her. There seems to be little doubt but that Ulrich thought I might be a kidnaper. If so, he was perfectly justified in attacking me. No man could have done otherwise under the circumstances."

"I have no personal feeling against Mr. Ulrich. To my mind he did the manly thing."

Affection for Washington and Praise for Taft.

NEW YORK, March 27.—At a mass meeting of more than 500 negroes in the Bethel A. M. E. Church today, resolutions were adopted expressing confidence in and affection for Dr. Booker T. Washington, the negro educator. President Taft was warmly praised for writing his letter of sympathy to Dr. Washington.

The Rev. A. C. Powell said: "When I first saw the papers with the account of the assault on Dr. Washington, I felt like getting a mob and stringing the man responsible for it by the thumbs, but a minute later I changed my mind, and knew that nothing would so help the emancipation would so tend to help the negro race, or bring it closer together than this very thing."

Spring-Cleaning

The Human System Needs It.

Mrs. M. Morgan, 411 4th Av., E., Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I take from one to two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring to purify the blood just as regularly as I do my house-cleaning, and go around light-footed and light-hearted. I believe it is the best blood purifier known." Hood's Sarsaparilla so combines the curative principles of roots, barks and herbs as to raise them to their highest efficiency; hence its unequalled cures. BARONESS ELOPES, BARON SUES HER RELATIVES, LOSES

Lord Derby, as Witness in Slander Proceeding, Fails De Forest Utterly.

LONDON, March 27.—The suit brought by the wealthy young Baron Arnold de Forest against his mother-in-law, Lady Mary Gerard, and the latter's brother, Henry Milner, for slander, was tried today, and collapsed suddenly when Lord Derby, to whom the slanders were alleged to have been confided, swore that he had no recollection of them.

Sir Edward Clarke, counsel for the plaintiff, thereupon announced that he was unable to proceed, in view of the lack of evidence, and judgment for the defendants was returned.

Baron de Forest, whose marriage to the widow of Milner, the chocolate manufacturer of France, was annulled subsequently, entered English society and married Miss Gerard, who is very wealthy, having inherited most of the fortune of the late Baron Hirsch.

The wife, who is described as beautiful and accomplished, later vanished from her home and, according to the plaintiff, departed in the company of Lieut. H. C. S. Ashton of the Second Life Guards.

The plaintiff alleged that the conduct of his wife was approved by Lady Gerard and Milner in utterances reflecting on him. Milner, who married the Duchess of Montrose, denies having uttered the alleged slanders.

Sir Edward Clarke opened the proceedings by describing the married life of the De Forests, which he said was happy until one night in May, 1909, when after a ball, the Baroness refused to go home with her husband. Instead, she went away with the young guardsman, Ashton, and on the next day confessed to her husband in the presence of her mother and her uncle, Milner, that she had been at fault. The matter was patched up, and the Baroness returned to De Forest.

In the course of his statement, Sir Edward Clarke divulged that it was the Baroness de Forest with whom Ashton eloped to Palma in February, 1910, instead of the daughter of a high court functionary, as was reported at the time. Subsequently De Forest again forgave his wife.

DIAS MUST QUIT OR WAR WILL GO ON, SAYS MADERO

Limantour and De La Barra Not Acceptable to Revolutionary Party.

NEW ELECTION DEMANDED

Two Administration Leaders Declared Ineligible Because of Parentage.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—"Limantour is Diaz, Diaz is Limantour," and both will have to go before the revolutionists will lay down their arms to consider peace," said Gustavo Madero, brother of the leader of the Mexican revolutionists, passing through Washington today on his way to San Antonio.

Neither Diaz, Limantour nor De La Barra will do. Diaz must resign, Madero declares, and a new election, free from Diaz influences, must be held before the Maderistas will consider peace. This is the stand of the leaders of the revolutionists here.

According to the revolutionists here, Diaz has simply been a figurehead for more than two years, and Limantour has been the real head of the Government. President Diaz wanted to quit before the last election, but Limantour and Creel induced him to remain in the campaign.

Expect No Reforms. The revolutionists say Limantour and De La Barra have always worked hand in hand, and that any reforms they may promulgate will bear the stamp of the Diaz oligarchy.

While the officials of the State and War Departments will not talk for publication, many of them are of the opinion that the insurgents will refuse to heed the appeal for a reunited Mexico until every vestige of the Diaz regime is wiped out. At the War Department it is believed that the fighting in Mexico will continue into the summer.

Senor de la Barra told the President that, with Limantour and himself at the head of the nation, peace would be restored; that both have a large personal following among the insurgents, including the Madero family. This is denied by Gustavo Madero.

Limantour Ineligible. The revolutionists say Limantour nor Creel can ever become President of Mexico, one of the parents of each having been foreign born. Limantour's father was a Frenchman and served at Vera Cruz as Consul. Creel's father was a Kentuckian. The Mexican Constitution provides that a citizen, to be eligible for the presidency, must have had native-born parents.

The revolutionists say this leaves De la Barra as the only Diaz-Limantour subcommittee as Diaz's successor, and they will not consider him, they assert.

Gen. Reyes Leaves Italy for Paris. MODENA, Italy, March 27.—Gen. Bernardo Reyes, the Mexican soldier, who is mentioned as likely to return to his former post of Minister of War in the Cabinet of President Diaz, left here today for Paris. He said he expected the new ministry would be formed before his arrival at the French capital.

WOMAN FIRE VICTIM, DIES

Mrs. Eva Krider Was Overcome by Smoke and Burned.

Mrs. Eva Krider died Sunday afternoon at the city hospital from burns she suffered in a fire at 2006 Olive street, where she lived. The first floor of the structure there is used for stables, the upper floors for dwellings. Fire started in the stables, and Mrs. Krider, who was asleep in her room above, was overcome by the smoke. When she was found she was crouched behind a stove, and her face and hands had been burned.

Four children who were in the house escaped, but they forgot Mrs. Krider. Twelve horses and two mules perished in the fire.

CIGARETTE CAUSE OF FACTORY FIRE; DEAD NUMBER 144

Proprietors of Burned New York Waist Plant Summoned to Testify Regarding Locked Doors and Barred Fire Exits in Marshal's Inquiry.

100,000 IN MORBID
THROW AT MORGUE

Pickpockets Thrust From Line by Detectives, and Half the Applicants, Whom Curiosity Impelled, Are Turned Away.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Search of the Asch Building at 23-29 Washington place, and correction of the lists at the morgue fixes at 144 the number of those who lost their lives in the fire which swept the factory of the Triangle Waist Co. Saturday afternoon. Included in this total is a skull whose torso has not been found, and two bodies reported by the police to be in the flooded sub-basement of the building. Fifty bodies at the morgue have not been identified. There were 16 men killed and 128 women. Twelve injured are in hospitals.

Investigation by the authorities has brought the conclusion that the fire was caused by the ignition, if not the explosion of gasoline used in heating pressing irons in the finishing room on the eighth floor. Fire Chief Croker believes that the spark which fired this gasoline came from a cigarette which burned long after it had been carelessly flung away.

District Attorney Whitman started an official investigation today to fix the responsibility for the horror.

Many Buildings as Bad. The building department summoned the proprietors of the Triangle Waist Co. and several employees to testify at the public investigation instituted today. He will inquire particularly into the truth of statements that doors leading to the exits were locked.

"So far as I have been able to discover," said Mr. Beers, "there has never been a fire drill in this factory. In my opinion it would take the 700 girls three hours to reach the street by the fire escape that was used in the building. I can say that the shutters obstructed this fire escape."

"There are a thousand other buildings in this city in the same condition. The buildings are packed as tight as sardines, and are then converted into factories. Nine-tenths of the employees cannot read English, yet I could not find a sign in Yiddish or Italian pointing out fire exits."

The Building Department was called on for a report on the burned building and every other department that is in any way concerned also will be required to make a detailed report.

Fully 100,000 persons, not more than 200 of whom could have had any legitimate reason for being there, thronged the morgue, tried to get into it to lay eyes upon the victims. More than 50,000 succeeded.

Thoughtlessly, coarsely and disgustingly they tried to make Saturday's disaster Sunday's big show. Three hundred policemen were required to restrain them from overrunning the pier.

Many Show Levity. The line of the waiting stretched from the morgue door to First avenue along Twenty-sixth street, then down four blocks to Twenty-second street. Some men and women entered the place laughing or giggling. Many were chewing gum, and some munched candy. There was an expression of excitement in their eyes that was not good to look upon.

The big, iron-covered, yellow Charles Pier on the East River, at the foot of Twenty-sixth street was the house of the dead. From late Saturday night, through all of Sunday and this morning, hundreds went there looking for their missing: fearful, half hopeful that, in some unthoughtful manner, a mother, father, sister or brother, who had not returned home, might still have escaped.

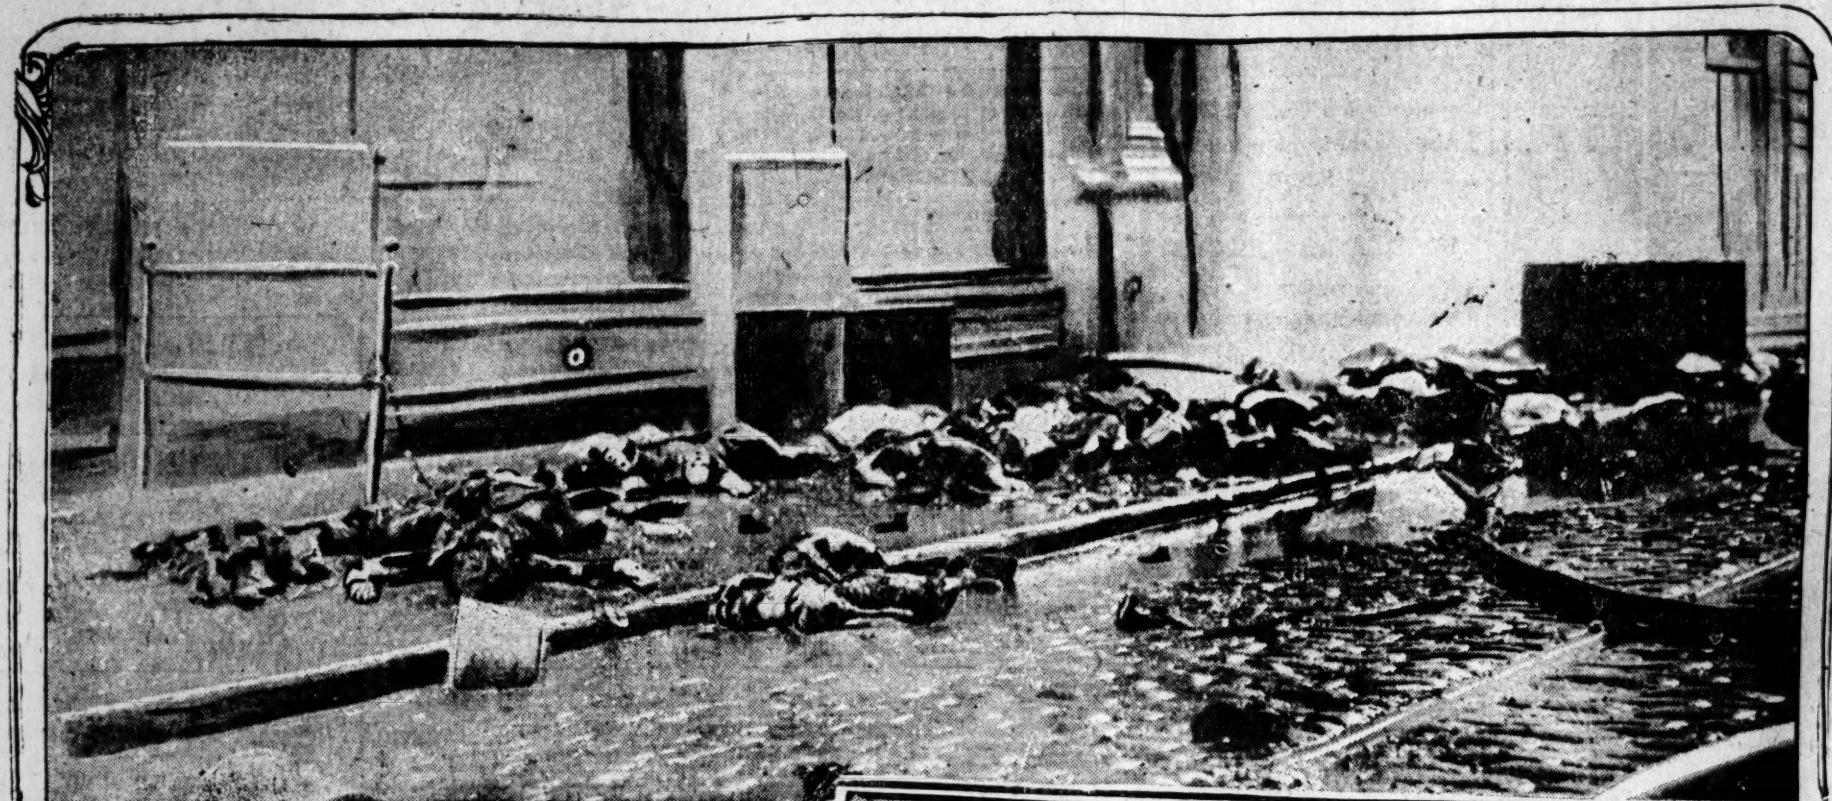

Identifications came rapidly, each with a story of piteous circumstances. Women, young and old, had to be carried away in the arms of policemen who had lifted them from brown pine coffins over which they had fallen, swooning or shrieking as they beheld some bit of jewelry or remnant of attire, or, perhaps, by close scrutiny recognized a face confining their worst fears. Cries sounded and echoed in the long, high-roofed enclosure. Every little while a mother lifted her head from a coffin and stared around in agony, her lips blackened by the kiss she had placed upon the charred forehead of the son or daughter she found among the dead.

A girl stood over a coffin that contained the remnant of a human form, pointing at a ring that shone on a twisted hand. The ring told her that the body in the coffin was that of the man she was, in a week's time, to have married. A father found first one daughter and an hour later another, the bodies lying far apart among the dead. And night found the man with pale hands still sitting among the bodies, looking for the mother of the girls. All three had been workers in the Triangle factory.

Recognized Locket. A lad identified his sweetheart by means of the locket resting on her flame-withered bosom. He knelt at the coffin and opened it; there was no doubt then. His picture looked out at him from the interior of the cold case. Laid in opposite rows and several feet apart, there were in this morgue 133 coffins. They were the coffins used as

STRIKING OBJECT LESSON ON THE NEED OF FIRE ESCAPES AND FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION

Scenes outside the New York factory fire trap where men and women workers, cut off from escapes, jumped from the 8th, 9th and 10th stories of the burning building.

FIRST ALARM WAS TAKEN AS A JOKE

ACCORDING TO Isaac Harris, one of the proprietors of the Triangle Waist Co., the alarm given when the flames were first discovered was taken as a joke by the employees.

"About two months ago," Mr. Harris said, "we installed the telegraph in our factory, to transmit orders from one floor to another. This is an electric machine which transmits written messages."

"The bell signalling the time for the workers to go home had rung at 4:45 and the girls and men were putting on their things. Just then Mary Alter, the bookkeeper, on the tenth floor, where I was at the time, received a message from Diana Lipschitz, the bookkeeper on the eighth floor, which read: 'The place is on fire. Run for your lives!'"

"Miss Alter thought this message from Miss Lipschitz was a joke, as some previous ones of the kind of the day had been, and she turned to some girls standing near and, after repeating the message, said laughing: 'Diana is 'stringing me,' what does she take me for?'" the temporary resting places of victims of the steamer Slocum disaster of 1904. Saturday night, when the police were made fully aware of the size of the death list, word was sent to Blackwell's island, and the old Slocum coffins were dragged out of storage, loaded on a boat and shipped to the Charities pier.

Interspersed in the half-grotesque parade of the 100,000 on curiosity bent were easily to be recognized those who came with poignant anxiety—those who were all but certain they must find in some coffin one of their own. Toward these the police, the physicians and the woman nurses were all kindness and quick attention. The women nurses, speaking softly, led the bereaved into their heart-breaking inspection. Doctors guided men looking for daughters or straggling, nerve-broken youths, who sought sisters or sweethearts.

Every official, from Commissioner of Charities Drummond to the humblest porter felt the stirring of revolt against the passing of the morbid throngs. Wherever they could feel certain they were not barring some person who might have the right to look among the corpses for a missing member of a family, they blocked the way.

Pickpockets Thrown Out. Detectives had the satisfaction of yanking out and putting to flight not less than forty pickpockets come for the purpose, in all probability, of nipping jewelry from seared throats and charred fingers, or thumbing burned clothing in the hope of finding a purse.

Civic organizations will offer relief to those who have suffered as a result of the fire. The first contribution was made by Mayor Gaynor, who subscribed $100. Industrial organizations and theaters made plans for supplementing the fund.

Paths to Safety Were All Barred. By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 27.—If panic was chiefly responsible for the loss of life in the Asch Building fire, the fault lay with two doors at the rear of the eighth and ninth floors. These doors opened on a stairway which led directly to the roof. If they were unlocked when the fire was discovered, every girl on these two floors had time to reach the roof in safety. If they were locked, the District Attorney will center his investigation about that fact.

The elevator, man says no one appeared in this part of the hall, which rather leads to the surmise that the doors were locked.

Employees of the Triangle Waist Co. state positively that they were locked, and that the custom was to keep them locked.

Just outside these doors in the hallway is a fire apparatus. It hangs today as it has hung for months, and was not touched by any of the 700 men and women.

Harris, one of the proprietors of the waist factory, was closely questioned regarding the allegation that the doors were kept locked. He denied it absolutely.

Harris said there had been five small fires in his place within the last year, all caused, he said, by the operators throwing butts or cigarettes into baskets containing waste ends of material. As to the one fire escape, it was hopelessly incumbered, as are most fire escapes everywhere. Iron doors hinged in the middle opened on this fire escape. When properly opened, these doors shut back against the walls and were held there by an iron hook. But Saturday many of these doors were not properly ajar.

The hooks were simply dropped between two of the iron slips that go to form the floor of the fire escape, with the result that the iron doors became two "V's," practically closing the fire escape from use, as the space between the base of the V and the outer railing of the fire escape was not enough for a person to pass except by tightly squeezing. The fire escape became hopelessly clogged as a result.

The damage to the building will not exceed $6000. Joseph J. Asch, owner of the building, reached New York last night from Florida. To a reporter he said:

"I am in no way responsible for the horrible loss of life in my building. It was erected in 1901. Every detail of it was submitted to the building and fire departments and was approved."

"After the Newark fire, did not the idea come to you that more escapes were needed on your building?" he was asked.

"No, it did not. The Newark building was a fire trap. My building was a fireproof. I can't understand even now how there was such a loss of life in my fireproof building. The thing is beyond me."

Chief Croker's terse criticism has already passed into proverb. "It was fireproof, all right," said he, "but the exhibits at the morgue show it was not death-proof."

Woman and Three Children Die in Kentucky Fire. HARRODSBURG, Ky., March 27.—Four persons perished and five others had narrow escapes in the destruction of the home of J. T. Veach by fire, four miles from here, early today. The victims were Mrs. J. M. Bridges and her three children. Her parents, the Veaches and their three children, escaped with slight burns.

Mrs. Bridges and her children were visiting at the Veach home.

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 27.—Ida Singer, a 17-year-old shirt-waist maker, who lies in her home suffering from a few minor bruises and cuts, has perhaps the strangest story to tell of any of the hundreds who escaped death in the Washington place fire horror.

She was found by firemen hanging, half-conscious, to a spike in the rear wall of the building, opposite the third-floor landing. She had fallen from the fire escape at the ninth floor, but the spike caught her clothing and saved her life.

"When I first heard the alarm," she says, "I was paralyzed with fear. I was too weak to run. I half crawled to a back window, and I remember I was crying bitterly as I raised a window opening on the narrow fire escape."

"Flames were roaring out of the windows below, but I knew I had to go down the narrow fire escape, so I climbed out. As I did so, I looked back and saw many girls rushing toward the window I had gone through. I was glad they were coming, and I stopped crying. I felt I had to get down ahead of them. The iron steps of the ladder were hot and getting hotter as I went down. I had taken probably three steps downward when the first of the girls rolled out of the window above me, crashing down on me, and I lost my balance and felt myself falling. I remember I was almost glad of it before I lost my senses."

"When I woke up I was in the funniest position. I had to stop and study me. My hands were down by my feet, and I was doubled up. I heard men and women, far off, shouting and screaming. I tried to move and couldn't. After a long time I heard a voice, and a window was opened. Two men got hold of me and took me inside the building. My coat, skirt and hat remained on a big spike in the wall."

"The men wanted to know how I got caught on that spike and I told them fell from the ninth floor. In spite of the horror of the situation, we all laughed."

"But I shall never forget what I saw below me when I was hanging on that spike. I saw men and women piled up on top of one another. Some were quite still, and others were frantically waving their arms and shouting. I saw a girl wiping a man's face with her hand."

SPIKE CATCHES GIRL WHO FELL FROM NINTH FLOOR

Ida Singer Found Half Conscious, but Little Injured, Hanging By Her Clothing From Third-Story Projection.

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 27.—Ida Singer, a 17-year-old shirt-waist maker, who lies in her home suffering from a few minor bruises and cuts, has perhaps the strangest story to tell of any of the hundreds who escaped death in the Washington place fire horror.

She was found by firemen hanging, half-conscious, to a spike in the rear wall of the building, opposite the third-floor landing. She had fallen from the fire escape at the ninth floor, but the spike caught her clothing and saved her life.

"When I first heard the alarm," she says, "I was paralyzed with fear. I was too weak to run. I half crawled to a back window, and I remember I was crying bitterly as I raised a window opening on the narrow fire escape."

"Flames were roaring out of the windows below, but I knew I had to go down the narrow fire escape, so I climbed out. As I did so, I looked back and saw many girls rushing toward the window I had gone through. I was glad they were coming, and I stopped crying. I felt I had to get down ahead of them. The iron steps of the ladder were hot and getting hotter as I went down. I had taken probably three steps downward when the first of the girls rolled out of the window above me, crashing down on me, and I lost my balance and felt myself falling. I remember I was almost glad of it before I lost my senses."

"When I woke up I was in the funniest position. I had to stop and study me. My hands were down by my feet, and I was doubled up. I heard men and women, far off, shouting and screaming. I tried to move and couldn't. After a long time I heard a voice, and a window was opened. Two men got hold of me and took me inside the building. My coat, skirt and hat remained on a big spike in the wall."

"The men wanted to know how I got caught on that spike and I told them fell from the ninth floor. In spite of the horror of the situation, we all laughed."

"But I shall never forget what I saw below me when I was hanging on that spike. I saw men and women piled up on top of one another. Some were quite still, and others were frantically waving their arms and shouting. I saw a girl wiping a man's face with her hand."

NEGRO IN PISTOL DUEL USES WHITE WOMAN AS SHIELD

Fires at Policeman Over Her Shoulder, When Caught Robbing Her Guest.

WOUNDED THREE TIMES

Flees, Hides Under Bed at Home and Surrenders Only After Being Shot in Foot.

Mrs. Mamie Lucas and her husband, Julius, were entertaining a visitor, P. M. Oates, in the parlor of their home at 733 North Third street, East St. Louis, Sunday afternoon, when there was a knock at the back door.

When Mrs. Lucas opened the door a negro pointed a revolver at her and said: "I'm coming in." Mrs. Lucas fled and the negro followed her into the parlor.

Lucas ran out the front door to look for a policeman. The negro forced Mrs. Lucas and Oates to stand against the wall. He was searching Oates' pockets when Lucas returned with Policeman Carlin.

Uses Woman as a Shield. The policeman opened fire and the negro, grabbing Mrs. Lucas about the waist with his left hand, used her as a shield while he rested his revolver on her shoulder and returned the policeman's fire. Mrs. Lucas' cheek was powder-burned.

Wrestling the woman from the negro's grasp Carlin fired twice at short range, wounding the negro in the chin and in the right shoulder. The negro fled through the rear door. Carlin followed him three blocks. A riot call was turned in and Sergt. Boston and squad of policemen joined the chase.

Sergt. Boston found the negro hiding under a bed at his home at Second and Exchange streets. When ordered to come out he did not move and Sergt. Boston shot him in the foot. He then surrendered.

Says He Took Cocaine. The negro was identified as George Alexander. He is at St. Mary's Hospital in a serious condition. When asked why he entered a white man's home with a drawn revolver he rolled his eyes. "Dat auttently was fine cocaine," he said.

DR. GRENELL GETS MURCHISON BEQUEST

Missionary and Explorer Rewarded for Work in Labrador in Recent Years.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The council of the Royal Geographical Society of England has awarded to Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the missionary and explorer, the Murchison bequest for the current year in recognition of his many years' work in Labrador, which has added to the world's geographical knowledge.

Announcement of the award was made here today.

Dr. Grenfell's work, it is pointed out by the council has resulted in a material contribution to the accuracy of existing defective charts of the Labrador region and in valuable contributions to knowledge of the people as to resources of Labrador.

FALSELY IDENTIFIES BODY AS HIS OWN

Son of Politician Has Since Been Seen, Alive and Well, Say Police.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 27.—Detectives of this city are seeking Lewis L. Thornton, son of a Kansas City politician to learn what he knows concerning a supposed suicide on the Government reservation at San Pedro last Wednesday and a subsequent false identification of the victim's body as that of Thornton.

Police say it was Thornton himself who supplied the identification, and his relatives are now hurrying to this city to take charge of the body.

Thornton has been seen alive and well since the tragedy.

AIDED CARNEGIE AT KEY

"Col." M. D. Crain, Veteran Telegrapher, Dies.

"Col." Marquis D. Crain, chief of the Western Union Telegraph Co. in St. Louis for the past 20 years, whose career as a telegrapher began half a century ago with service in the Civil War, died Sunday at his home, 802 Clarkson place. He would have been 70 years old next Saturday.

Death was due to a stroke of apoplexy sustained two months ago. Crain saw service throughout the Civil War as a field telegrapher under the command of Andrew Carnegie and Col. R. C. Clowrey, who recently resigned as head of the Western Union. He is survived by his widow and eight children. The funeral will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. C. Bittling at the residence at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Interment will be at Bellefontaine.

ALIEN LAND BILL LOST

Proposed to Restrict Ownership by Asiatics.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 27.—Hope for passage of the Senate alien land bill, restricting ownership of property by people of Asiatic race, died when the Assembly voted yesterday at the close of its afternoon session to adjourn until today.

If a session had been held last night, the bill might have been read the second time and passed today. The Legislature had agreed to adjourn tonight and to carry the bill through the second and third readings in a day would require a suspension of the constitution by a two-thirds vote.

The measure is regarded as lost.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

HARPERS MAGAZINE

For April

THE short stories of Harpers Magazine are justly famous and seldom has a more notable group been brought together than in the April number. They are stories remarkable for their interestingness, variety and distinction—and they represent a notable group of writers, old and new. Here are a few of the contributors:

William Dean Howells
Alice Brown
Norman Duncan
Margarita Spaulding Gerry
James Barnes
Annie Warwick
James Branch Cabell

Among the more serious features of the Magazine are articles as romantic and stirring to the imagination as any fiction. Ellsworth Huntington tells of the great laboratory in the Arizona desert where men of science are studying the life of this arid country. Waldemar Kaempffert explains for the first time why flying machines heavier than air are able to fly in the air. William Walton tells of the beautiful mural paintings which H. Siddons Mowbray has made for the J. P. Morgan Library and other buildings. Louise Closser Hale writes with delightful humor of the Spanish resort of Ronda—an inland Gibraltar as she calls it, and one of George du Maurier's most intimate friends recalls with great charm his memories of their student days in Paris. Many hitherto unpublished drawings by Du Maurier are reproduced.

And these are only a few of the articles in the number.

Everyone is reading Margaret Deland's great serial "The Iron Woman" in Harpers and everyone is saying that it is the greatest novel of years. A writer in the Herald of Lexington, Ky., of March 5, 1911, says: "It is almost impossible to feel interested in books for the last week in the month, for the magazines are so delightful. 'The Iron Woman' is a most wonderful story, growing into a really great novel; it is distracting to have it come serially. The 'Harper' is full of stories and articles of deeper moment, which we realize, when we simply cannot squeeze another line out of 'The Iron Woman,' are unusually charming."

CHICAGO MAYORALTY
CANDIDATE IS HURT

Charles E. Merriam, Republican,
Badly Cut in Automobile Accident.

CHICAGO, March 27.—In an automobile accident yesterday Charles E. Merriam, Republican candidate for Mayor, escaped with a badly cut hand, a deep cut on his head, and a wrenched back. He was about to start a day's campaign of 14 speeches. His automobile was headed west on Oak street, near Orchard, when the front wheel struck a deep hole. The steering gear was broken and the machine thrown into the curb. Merriam was hurled violently against the glass shield at the front, his head and left shoulder going through. Half dazed he was extricated and hurried into a nearby drug store.

After Merriam's cuts were bandaged, companions urged him to cancel his engagements, but he ordered another automobile, and had his aide telephone all places he would be half an hour late.

ONE DOSE RELIEVES INDIGESTION
AND SETTLES DISORDERED STOMACHS.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, your real and only trouble is that you eat too much. You eat too much because you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, gas, or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—your are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; food you eat—ADV.

Stolypin's Assumption of Power Amazes Russian Public Men.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 27.—An imperial ukase, promulgating the Zemstvo bill, article 87 of the fundamental laws, has been issued with the Emperor's acquiescence. M. Stolypin's assumption of what are virtually dictatorial functions has struck the politicians with amazement and has produced what is regarded as a grave constitutional crisis.

The residence of Durnovo, dismissed ex-minister of the interior, has become the center of a political revolt, in which it is sought to unite both chambers and nearly all parties against the Government.

COMEDIANS' JOKES DROWN KATIE DIDS' CHIRP AT CENTURY

Bright New Musical Comedy
Pleases Audience With Humor and Spectacle.

The comedy, "My Friend From India," which shook the Century with laughter a decade or so ago, returned to that theater last night, dressed with musical comedy trimmings and burlesqued almost beyond recognition, under the new title, "Katie Dids." Just why the change of name was made is not apparent, and one never knows why it is so called until near the final curtain, when someone sings "The Tell-Tale Katie Dids," with Katie dids chirping, fireflies flying, dragons dragging and stars twinkling—a real musical comedy moonlight. This was really the first time "Katie Dids" got into the spotlight. Until then "My Friend From India" had ruled the comedy and music of the play with tonorial philosophy and the wit occasioned by an early morning hangover. No sooner had the "Katie Dids" girls sang or danced themselves into favor than the philosopher burlesqued their act from the boards.

Le Petite Adelaide and J. J. Hughes did a really artistic dance, called the "Spirit of the Yellow Robe," which is as praiseworthy as any of the things done by the stars now making a bid for dance honors, but it was burlesqued and cheapened a few moments later by May Vokes, as a slavey of Kansas City, and Clarence Harvey, the philosopher, who rob it of its mystery and beauty, using it only as a vehicle for cheaper

"LES HUGUENOTS" FINELY SUNG BY FRENCH COMPANY

Tenor Fontaine and Basso Huberty Divide First Honors of Opening Night.

OPERA STRONGLY CAST

Meyerbeer's Sombre Work Well Interpreted—"La Bohème" This Evening.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

HONORS were about evenly divided between M. Fontaine, tenor, and M. Huberty, basso, of the French Opera Company at the Garrick Theater Sunday night, the former singing the role of Raoul de Nangis, the latter that of grim old Marcel, in "Les Huguenots," the sombre historical opera of Meyerbeer's company.

Fontaine, now heard in St. Louis for the first time, revealed a voice of pleasingly pure quality, wide in range and of unexpected power at certain moments when power is demanded to supplement lyric sweetness. The employment of this voice constituted an admirable example of the best French method in dramatic vocalization.

It was so satisfying, indeed, that its possessor scored an early triumph, which was so prolonged as to materially interrupt the progress of the first act, and the favor then gained was firmly held throughout the entire performance. Reinforcing his merits as a singer, Fontaine played the part of Raoul with genuine histrionic fire, and his handsome stage presence intensified the appeal of his initial St. Louis endeavor.

Huberty, the great basso who was one of the memorable figures of this company's engagement at the Garrick last season, finely justified the popular judgment then passed on his work. He sang the impressive Marcel score with splendid effectiveness and his acting was marked by dramatic fervor notable in its consistent vigor and suggestion of rugged temperament. Huberty's voice is not only majestic in volume and in its deep purity; it is at the same time capable of the most delicate emotional shading and is used with such complete mastery as to be at all times a rare delight to its hearers. His signal triumph of Sunday evening was eminently well deserved.

Other principals put forward in the cast of the opening performance accomplished themselves in a manner to promise excellent opera whenever they are called upon during the week now just begun.

The Valentine of Mile. Sclater's singing and playing measured well up to the worthiest standards and won the commendation of Sunday night's audience to a degree quite in keeping with the success scored by MM. Fontaine and Huberty in the somewhat overshadowing roles of their essaying. Mile. Donaldson proved to be a sincerely capable Marguerite de Valois, pleasing alike in voice and manner, and the Urbain of Mile. Bingry was one of the lesser triumphs of the night.

The Count de Nevers of M. Moore's presenting was vocally satisfying and of good dramatic quality, and the Count de Saint-Bris of M. Cailliot was an uncommonly distinguished realization of that trying role. The night's worth of reasonably efficient hands.

The chorus deserves especial commendation. Its members sing well and act well, conveying assurance that they have been carefully selected from the standpoint of vocal competency, well trained in stage work, and held under a solicitous discipline intended to attain the best results in operatic art. The orchestra under M. De La Fuente's conductorship was pleasingly efficient, at many moments distinguishing itself in interpretative work of genuine value.

"Bohème" will be Monday night's offering, with a cast promising an excellent performance of this tremendously popular Puccini opera.

WILL OWN BIGGEST YACHT

Chicagoan to Break the Record of Past Ten Years.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A Chicago yachtsman, William A. Lydon, is to have the largest ocean-going yacht constructed in America in the last 10 years. The keel will be laid in a few weeks in Wilmington, Del., under the supervision of a New York ship architect. The boat, 215 feet long on deck, is to be called the Lydonia II. The hull is to be all steel and the engines capable of long runs at 12 knots an hour. Delivery is to be made before Jan. 1. The boat's first cruise will be to the West Indies, after which it will be taken to Chicago.

POSTPONES OCEAN FLIGHT

Brucker Will Make Test of Balloon and Machinery.

KIEL, Germany, March 27.—Joseph Brucker has decided to postpone until next fall his attempt to cross the Atlantic in the dirigible balloon Suchard. The voyage had been planned for this or next month and the delay is to permit of trials of the balloon and its machinery overlaid before the transatlantic trip is undertaken.

Backache

Is only one of many symptoms which some women endure through an ailment of the womanly organs. Mrs. Lizzie White of Memphis, Tenn., wrote Dr. E. V. Pierce, as follows: "At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had very pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case. Internal organs were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact, I suffered all over. This was my condition when I wrote to you for advice. After taking your 'Favorite Prescription' for about three months can say that my health was never better."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is a positive cure for ailments and disease of the feminine organisms. It heals ulcerations and soothes pain. Tones and builds up the nerves. Do not permit a dishonest dealer to substitute for this medicine which has a record of 40 years of cure. "No, thank you, I want what I ask for."

CHINA, UNREADY TO FIGHT, MUST YIELD TO RUSSIA

Will Acquiesce in Demands of Ultimatum, While Japan Keeps Hands Off.

By Associated Press.
PEKIN, March 27.—China is not prepared to antagonize Russia completely, and as a result of prolonged conferences, the Chinese Foreign Office today issued the Russian Minister, M. Korostovetz, that China will acquiesce unreservedly to the demands made in the Russian ultimatum concerning the provisions of the treaty of 1858. Russia insisted on an answer before Tuesday. It is generally considered that there was no alternative course, because of China's unpreparedness for war. Intense interest is being manifested in the attitude of Japan, which is obviously holding entirely aloof, although more powerful than ever at Peking.

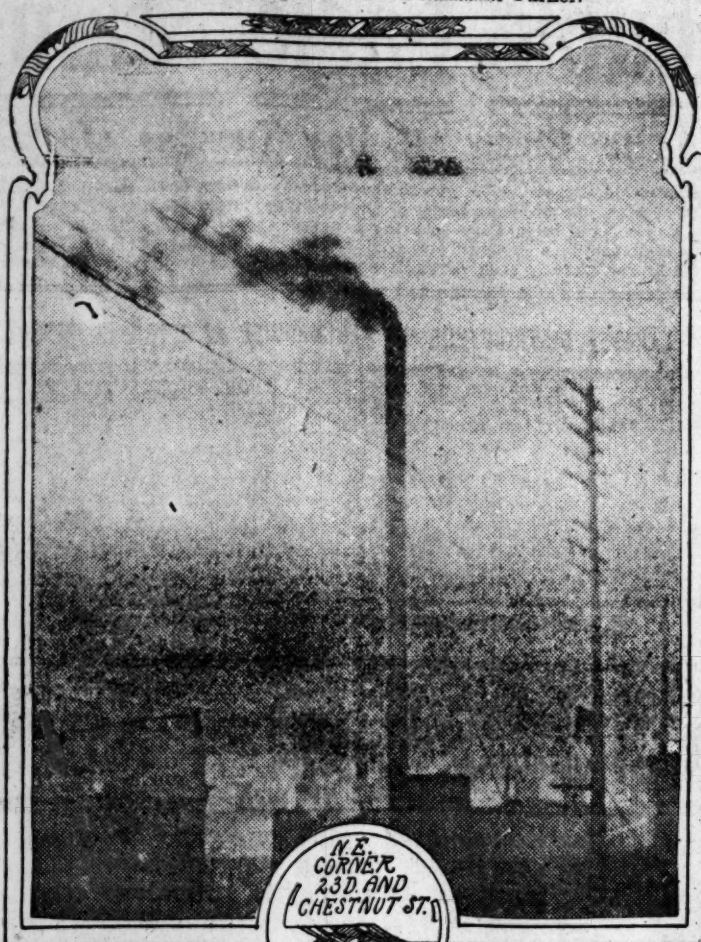

While the issue between China and Russia has been almost obliterated by the recent series of ultimatums, and theoretically insufficient cause for occupation exists, Russia apparently fears that she can obtain only paper promises, which the Chinese will not observe unless intimidated.

Some sections of the legation quarter ridicule Russia for not following in the first instance the recent example set by Great Britain in occupying territory awaiting Chinese readiness to discuss the contested points. But it is recognized that Russia, by failing to do this, has shown a desire to avoid the appearance of aggressive designs.

The Chinese newspapers, which are intensely ignorant of foreign affairs, are very hostile against Great Britain, which they accuse of beginning the present "land grab." They prophesy that Japan and France will not be long in following suit.

CULTURE CLUB TO HEAR CANDIDATES SPEAK AT LIBRARY

Democrats, Republicans and Socialists to Hold Meetings at Souldard Branch.

A Democratic mass meeting under auspices of South Side Self-Culture Club will be held in the Souldard Branch Library, Seventh and Souldard streets, Monday evening. Tuesday evening Republicans will hold a meeting under auspices of the club, and Wednesday evening the Socialists will use the library.

These meetings were arranged by the Self-Culture Club to hear public questions discussed by candidates of all parties.

Charles Bilharts will be chairman of the Democratic meeting. Otto F. Lefler will be chairman of the Republican meeting. Dr. Emil N. Simon will be chairman of the Socialist meeting.

This will be the first series of political meetings ever held in the public libraries. The Self-Culture Club made arrangements with the Library Board for use of the library for the meetings, and the chairman of the three committees were surprised when they received invitations to hold meetings in the library, under auspices of the club.

The Democrats have scheduled several other meetings for the week. Tuesday night there will be a Tenth Ward meeting at Wagner's Hall, Texas avenue and Charlock street. Wednesday night the Twentieth Ward Democrats will meet at Hibernian Hall, Grand and Finney avenues, and Thursday night there will be a meeting in the Thirteenth Ward at Anchor Hall, Jefferson and Park avenues. A Twenty-second Ward meeting at Northwest Liederkreis Hall, 2940 Easton avenue, is announced for Friday night.

The Republicans have five meetings scheduled for Monday night. Twenty-sixth Ward, Bellevue Hall, 800 Easton avenue; Fourth Ward, Bundeschor Hall, Fourteenth and Howard streets; Twenty-second Ward, Klocker's Hall, Newstead and North Market; Twenty-first Ward, Wrausman's Hall, Warne and Kosuth avenues; Sixteenth Ward, Murman's Hall, 840 Park avenue.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, trepid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

The olive oil in Olive Tablets is itself a natural laxative and has a healing, soothing, strengthening effect on the irritated organs.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel.

At all druggists in neat pocket packages. 15 tablets for 10c; 45 tablets for 25c.

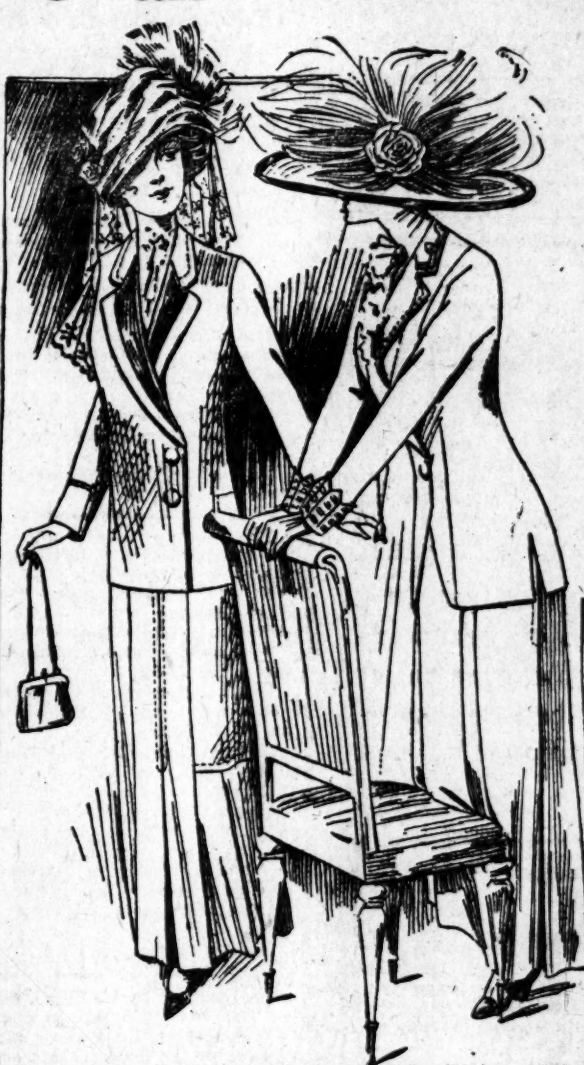

Made by the Olive Tablet Company, of Portsmouth, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, Pres.

Sold Since Printing Press
Was Invented.

CHICAGO, March 27.—The Bible as a best seller was discussed last night by Henry B. F. MacFarland, former Commissioner of the District of Columbia, before the Sunday Evening Club. MacFarland said no popular novel ever had reached the sale of the Bible during any year since the invention of printing. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the only book which has approached the Bible in circulation since the former book was written, in 1852," said MacFarland. "It is said the year it was published 300,000 legitimate copies and 1,500,000 copies of pirated editions of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' were sold. It is estimated that in all 10,000,000 copies of the novel have been sold in 59 years. SEEKS DAUGHTER, AGED 16

Mother Desirous of Finding Missing Minnie Meyer.

Mrs. Louise Meyer of 8348 Maffitt avenue asked the Post-Dispatch Monday to aid her in finding her daughter, Minnie, who disappeared last Tuesday. The girl is 16 years old, weighs about 125 pounds and is 5 feet 6 inches tall. She has light-brown hair, parted on the left side; grayish-blue eyes, and a protruding tooth on the left side of the mouth which is conspicuous when she laughs. When she left home she wore a pink silk dress, and a pink hat trimmed with a red feather and a big black buckle. She had been employed in the Imperial Laundry, Twenty-eighth street and Chouteau avenue. She drew her pay last Tuesday, and in her mother's absence, went home and got her clothes.

Gives Police Man's Name Saying
She Thought Old Injury Made Him Irresponsible.

Miss Blanche Sadlek of 1804 Geyer avenue, 19 years old, was stabbed Saturday in the back, just below the neck, as she was about to enter a passageway leading into her home. She told the police the man who followed and attacked her looked like Charles Martinek of 1821 South Thirteenth street. She said she had known him four years, but he had no motive for hurting her. She thought a bullet wound in the head which he suffered four years ago might have made him irresponsible. When Martinek was awakened at his home he readily gave the policeman his knife. He gave an account of his actions during the evening, and said he was at home in bed at 10:30 p. m., when Miss Sadlek was slashed. He was arrested.

BRYAN'S WISHES IGNORED

Fitzgerald and Adamson Opposed as Reactionaries Named
Despite His Strong Fight.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, March 27.—Unless something unexpected comes to change the plans of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, which is also the Committee on Committees, the following will be appointed committee chairman: Agriculture—Lamb of Virginia. Appropriations—Fitzgerald of New York. Bank and Currency—Fujo of Louisiana. District of Columbia—Johnson of Kentucky. Education—Lever of South Carolina. Election of President, Vice-President and representatives in Congress—Rucker of Missouri. Foreign Affairs—Flood of Virginia. Immigration and Naturalization—Burnett of Alabama. Indian Affairs—Stephens of Texas. Industrial Arts and Expositions—Heflin of Alabama. Insular Affairs—Jones of Virginia. Interstate and Foreign Commerce—Adamson of Georgia. Invalid Pensions—Sherwood of Ohio. Irrigation of Arid Lands—Smith of Texas. Judiciary—Clayton of Alabama. Labor—Wilson of Pennsylvania. Manufacturers—Johnson of South Carolina. Military Affairs—Hay of Virginia. Naval Affairs—Padgett of Tennessee. Patents—Sulzer of New York. Pensions—Richardson of Alabama. Postoffices and Post Roads—Moore of Tennessee. Printing—Finley of South Carolina. Public Buildings and Grounds—Morris Sheppard of Texas. Revision of Laws—Watkins of Louisiana. Rivers and Harbors—Sparkman of Florida. Rules—Henry of Texas. Claims—Goldfogle of New York. War Claims—Slins of Tennessee. Census—Wilson of Pennsylvania. Public Lands—Robinson of Arkansas. Territories—Lloyd of Missouri. Library—Slayden of Texas. Railways and Canals—Korbly of Indiana. Reform in the Civil Service—Goodwin of North Carolina. The task of the committee is not yet over. Some of these may be changed. Capt. Lamb is being opposed for the Committee of Agriculture by Southern farmers' organizations because of his defiant stand against the anti-gambling bill introduced at the last session of Congress. The committee gave the chairmanship on Immigration and Naturalization to Burnett of Alabama over Sabash of Illinois by a vote of 7 to 6 after a hot contest. William Jennings Bryan, it is said, made a strong but losing fight against Fitzgerald for Appropriations and Adamson for Interstate and Foreign Commerce. He made it known that he is opposed to having "reactionaries" selected to preside on important committees.

FEARS LOSING DRINK SWALLOWS A FORK

Amateur Strong Man's Trick
Spoiled When Every One Is Invited to the Bar.

Harry Montgomery, who swallowed a fork, is at the city hospital in a serious condition following a surgical operation which removed the fork from his stomach.

Montgomery is an amateur strong man. He gave an exhibition in Fred Ellenhardt's saloon at 2624 North Tenth street Saturday night and at its conclusion he announced he would swallow a fork. He did. At the city hospital Monday Montgomery said that he frequently performed the fork trick. "I put the fork in my mouth but held my fingers on my throat in such a way that the fork can't slip too far. To the audience it looks as if I actually swallow it."

"When I was doing the trick Saturday night somebody said: 'Let's all have a drink.' In my hurry to get to the bar I took my fingers off my throat and the fork went down."

FALLS 13 STORIES; LIVES

Elevator Operator Has Broken
Ankle and Internal Injury.

Engel Millett, 19 years old, of 1121 Chestnut street, an elevator operator at the Jefferson Hotel, fell with his elevator 13 stories to the basement Sunday night. He was picked up unconscious, suffering from a broken ankle and internal injuries. He was taken to the City Hospital.

The elevator was a service car used only by employees of the hotel. Millett, on returning to consciousness, was unable to explain the cause of the accident. The car was demolished.

MEND DON'T GO TO HELL, BUT CARRY
HELL WITH THEM

The Rev. Dr. Lee, in Sermon, Explains His Hypothesis of the Hereafter.

"A STATE OF DISORDER"

"No Hell Beyond Grave, Except
That Which Men Manufacture
Here.

Every man makes his own hell, according to the Rev. Dr. James W. Lee, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, South, who preached Sunday morning on "Heaven and Hell in the Present Tense." He makes it here, Dr. Lee said, and takes it with him. He makes it out of "unhappiness, impurity, indecency, idolatry, sorcery, quarrels, strife, jealousy, outbursts of passion, acts of rivalry, dissensions, divisions, feelings of envy, drunkenness, revelry and such like." And the soul, according to Dr. Lee, that lives in these lives in hell, whether here or hereafter.

"The theological tendency to postpone hell to a period after death, and to warn the people against a doom they are likely to meet after shaking off the mortal coil, has not been productive of holy living.

"There is no hell beyond the grave, except such as man manufactures here and takes with him when he passes into the unseen.

"God never created a spark of hell fire throughout all the numberless cycles of eternity. God is the author of order and law and harmony. It is true, however, that God's order and law can only conserve the fortunes of those who accept them and obey them. It is true also that by so much as the law and order of God secures the well-being of the obedient, they must work to the wretchedness and misery of the disobedient.

"Hell may be defined as the state of disorder to which men commit themselves by wilfully refusing to conform to the laws of the divine order. Every man upon his coming into the world finds a light kindled in his higher nature showing him the way to conformity to the divine order. This light points in the direction of the purpose for which man was created. In so far as man has followed it, he has made his way upward to heaven. In so far as he has turned from it, he has made his way downward to hell.

"The light that lightens every man born into the world has its primary colors, which we may call reason, emotion and will. These primary colors of reason and emotion and will, under man's life, are met by truth and love and law outside of him. When reason follows truth, and emotion follows love, and will follows law, then man lives in accordance with the light that lightens every man upon his coming into the world, and so living, he becomes a human manufacturing establishment, and the products turned out are love, joy, peace, the other elements which make up the merchandise of heaven.

"When his reason turns from truth and his emotion from love and his will from law, then man becomes a breathing, palpitating human establishment for the manufacture of impurity, indecency, strife and the other elements which go to make up the merchandise of hell."

BERRIES FOR THE BIRDS

Central Park Offers Inducements to Insect Eaters.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Central Park will offer extra inducements for the emigration of bird population this spring. The birds are needed to help keep down the insect population that has been doing so much damage to the foliage and trees.

Park officials have a list showing there are more than 1800 varieties of insects that destroy things in the park. The song birds are best in suppressing these, and as a special favor to them, the officials are setting out such small trees and shrubs as Hawthorn, viburnum, witchhazel, viburnum and dogwood, whose attractive berries offer a variety of diet to the birds.

WHEN THE WOMEN RULE

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch by Jean Knott

ST. LOUIS KENNEL
SHOW IS NOW IN FOUR-POINT CLASS

This Is the First of That Kind Ever Held Outside of New York City.

The coming show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club at the Coliseum, April 3-5-6 will be the first four-point show ever held outside of New York City, under the new rules of the American Kennel Club, which require that there be 750 separate and distinct dogs entered. The coming show has more than 1000 entries.

There still are many entries which will be received from far away points which were mailed before the hour for the closing of the entries and these, under the rules of the American Kennel Club, will have to be accepted, and when these entries are received it is expected to swell the entry list to more than 1200.

The members of the Bench Show Committee have worked hard to swell the list of entries, and it is due to their efforts that this city can boast of such a large show. The show will not only be a success from the large number of dogs entered, but from the fine breed and the class.

One hundred and fifty Eastern dogs have been entered, belonging to the Belmont and other prominent New York families. The Eastern entry in this show will be larger this year than ever before.

ALICE LONGWORTH
LIKELY TO TRY HER
WINGS AT CAPITAL

Miss Gladys Hinckley Goes Up
With Jannus and Society
Women Plan Air School.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, March 27.—A group of young society women planning an aviation school are jubilant over the likelihood that Mrs. Alice Longworth will make an ascent with Aviator W. Tony Jannus and that Miss Ruth Wynne, daughter of the former Postmaster-General, is confidently planning a flight. Miss Gladys Hinckley stole a march on the group Saturday by circling Potomac Park with Jannus at a height of 50 feet. She described her flight as "bully," "grand," "glorious." Only a few persons witnessed it.

Felt Like Flying Forever.
When the machine, after circling around several times, settled down, Miss Hinckley said:

"There's nothing to compare with it. You feel as if you were riding on the clouds. When Mr. Jannus tilted the plane so that we left the earth I felt that I never wanted to return. I was not a bit afraid when I saw the ground dropping out from under me and was told we had gone up 50 feet.

"You do not know how I envy the birds. I wanted to sail away with them, circle the Washington monument or do something equally thrilling. I often thought it would be bully to get into an aeroplane and fly over to Baltimore. I hope I may make more flights and become an expert."

Miss Hinckley, considered by many persons the handsomest unmarried woman in Washington society, is one of the founders of the school of aviation. Others interested in it are the Viscountess d'Axy, wife of the naval attaché of the French embassy, Mrs. Longworth and Miss Ruth Wynne, the latter a debutante of the present season.

GIRL WITH ONLY
724 WINS CENTRAL
HIGH JOKE PRIZE

Youth Is Second With 331 in School Journal's Big Humor
Reviving Contest.

1500 ARE CONTRIBUTED

Editors Get Them for $5 and Think of Enlarging Paper to Print 'Em All.

Humor languished at Central High School until the editors of the News, the school periodical, stimulated it by dividing $5 into three prizes for those who turned in the greatest number of jokes. This brought a flood of some 1500 to the editorial desk, and the editors are thinking about enlarging the paper to print them.

Here are some samples:
First Girl: What periods have you vacant for gym?
Second Girl: For Jim. Well, I guess I haven't any for Jim; we had a quarrel.

Teacher: Now, did you all get a Homer?
Student: No, I got only a two-bagger.

Teacher (in Latin): How would women say: "We are conquered"?
Student: They wouldn't say it.

A murderous English teacher said to her class: "We will take the life of Thackeray tomorrow; all come prepared."

Come swimming the seventh hour and hear Ruedi, Nushan Company in their "Love Act." This is a sample: Nushan, with outstretched arms: "Jump, Ruedi, jump for your life." After he's jumped: "Are you wet, dear?"

Who says we can't have a zoo? We've got "Bears" in algebra, "Sharks" in Latin, "Whales" in English, and three "Baxoon."

Mr. H.: Your listed class?
Pupil: 8-2.
Mr. H.: Taste good?

Freshman (passing alumni room): I wonder if alumni is a very hard study.

Miss Ramona Goldsborough of 4147 Delmar boulevard won first prize by turning in 724 jokes like these: John H. Moll of 232 Dayton street was second, with 511; Edwin Buchanan of 704 Delmar avenue, third, with but 168. The judge was H. G. Colwell of the faculty, Jacob Ellman, editor of the periodical, and John B. Prentiss, local editor.

HUNGRY CALVES LICK
NEW PAINT AND DIE

Member of Rich Elkins Family
Sues Wealthy Neighbor for Value of Jerseys.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—George W. Elkins, a member of the wealthy Elkins family of this city, is a breeder of pedigreed cows. His Jerseys are his pride, and when he loses one, he mourns almost as much as he would for one of his immediate family.

Until two days ago Elkins was the owner of two splendid calves. They had the run of his handsome estate, next to which lives Howard S. Eckles, head of the firm of H. S. Eckles & Co. of this city.

Last week, Eckles hired several painters, who gave the fence between the two estates a coat of nice red paint. Before the paint became dry the two calves, of which Elkins thought so much, became hungry.

Elkins brought suit against Eckles for the value of the calves. It is understood that if the action is pushed Eckles will file a counter suit for damage to the paint.

DIES IN ART MUSEUM

Caretaker Found Dead in Bed at Park Building.

Edward Campbell, caretaker of the Art Museum in Forest Park, was found dead in his bed at the Museum Monday morning by James Gallagher, a fireman employed in the building.

Physicians who examined the body said Campbell died of heart disease. He was 65 years old. The body was sent to the morgue.

POST-DISPATCH PRESENTS
RECORDS OF CANDIDATES FOR CITY COUNCIL

Democratic and Republican Nominees to Be Voted on Tuesday, April 4—Paule and Rower
Are Now in House of Delegates.

The Post-Dispatch today presents the records of the Democratic and Republican candidates for the City Council. The municipal election will be held April 4. Six members of the City Council and 23 members of the House of Delegates are to be elected.

Of the 12 Council candidates two, Edwin J. Paule and Henry Rower, Republicans, are members of the House of Delegates. The records of the candidates follow:

DEMOCRATS.
JOSEPH L. GRISWOLD is proprietor of the Laclede Hotel, for many years the gathering place for Democrats from all parts of the State. He is 68 years old and was born in Kentucky. He has never been active in politics, although he has watched the game from the sidelines for many years. He has a keen interest in municipal affairs, but has never held municipal office. He was for four years a member of the State Fish-Commission, having been appointed by Gov. Stone. In the early days of St. Louis he was interested in railroad construction. He was born in De Soto, Mo., and is 35 years old. He is a surgeon in Grace Hospital in Detroit for two years, later becoming a surgeon in the United States army. He returned to St. Louis in 1905 and took up private practice. He resides at 285 Russell avenue. He was one of the leaders in the campaign against the proposed new city charter.

ADRIAN A. RULE is president of the Real Estate Exchange, and is a member of the Kilgen-Rule Real Estate Co. He is 51 years old and was born in Pike County, Mo. He first began work as a boy in the printing office of Champ Clark, new speaker of the House of Representatives. He has never been active in politics. He resides at 3322 Lindell boulevard.

JOHN SANDERS is new to municipal politics. He has had charge of the Folk-for-President movement for the last year, directing its publicity and advertising in all parts of the country. He is president of the Sanders Engraving Co., 221 Olive street, and resides at 5431 Barmore avenue. He was born in Mississippi, and is 45 years old.

FREDERICK H. FRICKE is also new to active politics. He is 37 years old and was born in St. Louis. He is president of the Fricke-Hahn Drug Co., and vice-president of the Mississippi Valley Drug Co. He resides at 1577 North Nineteenth street.

STEPHEN A. MARTIN is associate manager of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. in the Pierce building. He is a student of municipal politics, and was clerk of the House of Delegates for two years, gaining there much information of value to a member of either House of the Municipal Assembly. He is 36 years old, and was born in St. Louis. He is a former newspaper man. He resides at 436 Delmar boulevard.

SAM LAZARUS is not experienced in politics. He is president of the Acme Cement Plant Co., in the National Bank of Commerce building, and resides at 481 West Pine boulevard. He was born in Syracuse, N. Y., and is 36 years old. He began business life as a clerk in a dry goods store.

REPUBLICANS.
HENRY ROWER is now a member of the House of Delegates. He voted for the bill reducing electric light rates in St. Louis, and voted against the bill to vacate many streets for the benefit of the Terminal Association. He is a painter, but does not follow that trade, being at present a varnish salesman. He was born in St. Louis and is 33 years old. He resides at 426 Labadie avenue.

EDWIN J. PAULE is also a member of the present House of Delegates, this being his second term. During a portion of his first term he was a member of the House of Commons, while he displayed much beneficial legislation. The combine delayed locating the Free Bridge for several months after the bill was introduced, delayed the bill establishing six small parks in crowded

TWO SICKLY CHILDREN

Made Well by Vinol—Letters
From Grateful Mothers.

My little girl ever since her birth was frail and sickly and nothing seemed to do her any good, until we tried your cod liver oil and iron tonic, Vinol. As soon as she commenced to take it, I noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. She has now taken three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can say it will do all you claim for it in building up and strengthening frail and delicate children." (Name furnished on request.) New Haven, Conn.

Another mother of Chicago, Ill., writes: "My little girl was thin, run down, pale and without any appetite. Vinol gave her a good appetite—she has rosy cheeks and has gained rapidly in flesh and strength."

"I cannot say too much in praise of Vinol for delicate, ailing children."

We ask every mother of a frail, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it does not do all we claim.—Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo.

$500 A FOOT FOR SITE
Locust Street Property Sells for Good Price.

The Delor Realty Co. has purchased a plot of 28x135 feet at 1309-11 Locust street and will improve it with a substantial factory building. The consideration for the site, at present occupied by old buildings, according to P. G. Zelig of Cornet & Zelig, who represented the grantor, John Hayden, was $500 a foot for the Locust street frontage. This price overtops all previous records for virtually vacant ground on Locust, west of Eighteenth street, and is significant as reflecting the enhancing effect of the plan to merge Locust street with Lindell avenue.

The purchaser, represented by James A. Goodwin of the Kilgen-Rule Realty Co., is now discussing the building plans with a prospective tenant.

PUBLIC SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIPS.

Failure of children to graduate from the grammar or high schools on account of poverty is an evil that is being lessened by the splendid work of public-spirited citizens. Under the new head of "Scholarship Aid," the report of the Board of Education shows that, during the past year, 20 children were enabled to continue in school who would otherwise have been compelled to go to work to aid their families.

The "scholarships" take the form of weekly payments to the child's parents upon the presentation of a satisfactory report from the teacher regarding the child's attendance, scholarship and conduct during the week. This plan was inaugurated by N. O. Nelson, four years ago. During the year ending June 30, 1910, 15 children were kept at school through his assistance. The interest in this form of philanthropy appears to be growing.

For persons of means who, like Abou Ben Adhem, "love their fellow men," the opportunity to act as a "big brother" to some child by enabling it to obtain an education, is very attractive. And the results are likely to afford a more satisfactory remembrance of the deed and his deed than the most costly monument. It would be well if enough citizens with the means to do so would come forward and provide a number of these "scholarships" sufficient to enable all children handicapped by poverty to graduate.

AGNES REPIPLIER'S COMING VISIT.

On March 30, Miss Agnes Repplier of Philadelphia will deliver an address on "Some Varieties of Popular Education," in Founder's Hall, Mary Institute. Miss Repplier is an essayist of distinction and has written much that is as notable for its literary finish as for its charm of sentiment. No radical is Miss Repplier, with a comprehensive scheme to reform the world, but a gentle and persuasive advocate, who pleads for many of the old ways. She is a fine type of the cultured conservative, and has assimilated a large amount of the best literature of various lands. Few Americans have done as much to restore the essay to its proper place in modern letters as Miss Repplier has done.

Miss Margaret V. Kelly will be acting director of the United States Mint during the absence of Director George E. Roberts and Mint Examiner Preson. Give a woman a chance and she can make as much money as a man.

MASTER MINDS.

At the annual charter day exercises in the Greek Theater of the University of California at Berkeley, Col. Theodore Roosevelt said the American nation should be profoundly dissatisfied if it did not produce any master minds. He probably meant any more master minds, but modesty prevented. We already have one master mind, whose postoffice address, when the mind is at rest, is Oyster Bay.

The Colonel declared that we must produce men prominent in pure learning, who may stand side by side with those of Europe. The law of supply and demand should be equal to adjusting a simple affair of this kind. We need the learned men for ornamental purposes and we want them to acquire reputations that will reflect credit on the nation. If there is any man in this country who knows as much as Sir Richard Francis Burton knew, or as Emile Littré knew, let him step forward and get his money. No impostor need apply, for Col. Roosevelt would instantly detect him if he attempted to pass off a translation from an ancient Irish manuscript, the work of a King of Munster, as the production of one of the caliphs of Bagdad. That sort of thing would not go, with the Colonel on watch.

He says our national progress, thus far, has been chiefly material. There is something in that statement. We are shy of highbrows, men who pray in pure Hebrew, think high thoughts in Attic Greek and who can read a Chinese laundry bill at sight. Before a man in this country becomes really learned, he goes out and gets a job as a college professor and begins to make the easy and copious money that belongs to such a vocation. The American people are too practical to produce many men of profound learning. What would it profit a man to be able to pick flaws in the New Encyclopedia Britannica if his room rent was low overdue and his opportunities to eat were limited to the occasional invitations of a few friends? Col. Roosevelt is hungry for scholarship, but the man of average learning is not willing to become a prodigy. The American appetite for erudition is not voracious. Only a few of us, if any, can ever hope to know as much as Col. Roosevelt. He is the only cowboy who ever quoted the Koran at the University of Cairo, the Roumain of the Rose at Oxford, and Sophocles at the Sorbonne in Paris.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The recent effort of members of the Municipal Assembly, working in conjunction with representatives of the United Railways, to fasten on St. Louis the present monopoly street railway system with all of its conditions that insure inadequate service and public exploitation, emphasizes the importance of the municipal election on April 4. That the era of attempted franchise grabbing in this city is not over is shown not only by that assault on public rights and interests, but by the pending Southern Traction franchise bill, which violates several fundamental principles and policies which should govern franchise legislation.

With these outcroppings of vicious methods of the past; with serious problems concerning the free bridge, Terminal adjustment, municipal public service to be settled, citizens cannot afford to be indifferent to the choice of municipal legislators. We must yet determine our policy with regard to the regulation of public utility corporations in the light of facts to be made public by the Public Service Commission. There is dynamite in that situation. Legislation during the next two years may be decisive in its bearing on municipal conditions for the next half century, the lifetime of most living St. Louisans.

It is imperative that honest men of intelligence and public spirit who will be faithful to the public interest be elected to the Municipal Assembly. The best men on either ticket should be selected by the voters, but wisdom suggests that the candidates being equal in known qualifications, the Democratic candidate should be preferred to the Republican.

The political situation is unusual. The Republican party is in control of the government. The question of spoils is dominant. The party is split into factions by a quarrel over the distribution of the offices. The organization which nominated the Republican ticket is opposed to the Mayor and is seeking the power to control him through the control of the Municipal Assembly. Its leaders particularly want to elect the Council ticket for the purpose of controlling the Mayor's appointments. The election of the Republican Council ticket would probably result in a deadlock which would block all municipal work, or in a combine which would place the control of the city government in the hands of a powerful machine working for party advantage, regardless of public interest.

On the other hand, although the Democratic organization is in bad repute, it is weak. The Council ticket is practically independent of the machine. It was chosen to regain public confidence. Without hope of spoils, the candidates if elected, will have no end to serve except the public end. They will not themselves be able to control the Council, but they can join with the best Republicans in support of sound public measures. They will be more likely than their Republican opponents to co-operate with the Mayor on sound measures and to oppose unsound party policies. A group of capable and honest Democratic councilmen would serve as a public "watch" and a salutary check on the dominant party. The Municipal Assembly needs a vigilant and aggressive opposition to expose and restrain partisan tendencies and schemes.

A cigarette is blamed for New York's disastrous fire. The guilty butt was found in the loft. Why investigate further?

DIAZ AND REHOBOAM.

Diaz is old. King Rehoboam was young when his cabinet was changed from old men to young. But Diaz may profit by what happened to Rehoboam. It is told of Rehoboam that the people of Israel had petitioned that their yoke be somewhat eased. And when the king took counsel of his new cabinet ministers, all young men, they said to him: "Thou shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy; but make thou it somewhat lighter for us; thus shalt thou say unto them: My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins. For whereas my father put a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke. My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions."

Following this advice, King Rehoboam found himself fighting a rebellion of 10 of the tribes. Nothing was left to him of the kingdom save the two tribes of Judah and Benjamin.

It is more than probable that if young men are chosen for the new cabinet of Diaz, they will give him the advice which the old men gave Rehoboam, to lighten the people's yoke. And what will Diaz do? If he follows Rehoboam's example of greater severity, even the young men may not be able to save him.

THE EMBROIDERY REVIVAL.

When a very modern man becomes convinced that he has a mind of unusual strength, he is likely to use it in trying to think out the whole thing. He has been told by his grandmother, no doubt, that the world is an "amazing" world full of amazing things. It is only, after he tries to explain everything to himself or to somebody else, that he learns what "amazing" means. As soon as he finds himself "in a maze" where he expected to learn everything and explain everything, he realizes that he is "all mixed up." Then if his mind is actually working, he would much rather be as placid as his grandmother was over her embroidery or her knitting than to mix himself up with any number of amazing things. This may be the moral when the Post-Dispatch exhibit of prize winning embroidery interested 30,000 people in one day. They saw the quiet order and placid order in it. The grandmothers of those who now do the most amazing things, found a sure way to become placid. They ceased to be amazed as soon as they began stitching along the "Hogarth's curves" which, all artists follow when they are getting enjoyment, real and placid, in doing work whose results others may think amazingly beautiful.

This is the way the Post-Dispatch embroidery revival was a success. It put on exhibition the work of those who can do things without being at all amazed.

The United Railways asks that the franchise proposal be withdrawn, thus making it unanimous.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

History Repeated Itself.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
An editorial in an esteemed morning paper declares with reference to the debate between Mr. Lionberger and Miss Pankhurst: "Mr. Lionberger is a man of brilliant parts and he probably made a good hand at such a hard job as could be found. We are unable to make comparisons, for if any other man under the sun ever essayed the same desperate work Mr. Lionberger set himself we are unaware of name, time and place."

As long ago as 1870 Prof. E. C. Hewett, a teacher in the Normal University, Normal, Ill., debated female suffrage with Miss Susan B. Anthony in Bloomington, Ill. Miss Anthony had come to Bloomington and delivered an address and Prof. Hewett challenged her to a debate. In the opinion of many in the audience Dr. Hewett was defeated.

Doubtless there are many Normal students of that time who will recall the debate, and also Dr. Hewett's violent opposition to female suffrage. As Dr. Hewett has long since been translated, this cannot offend his eye, and we hope he sees better now.

Sycamores for Shade Trees.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Owing to the smoke nuisance, free trees can live in St. Louis, but the one species that has proven its ability to withstand smoke is the beautiful sycamore.

Now, how fine and beautiful it would be to have the city forestry department, of which I believe Mr. Philip Scanlon is the head, plant and care for systematically sycamores on every street outside of the downtown district, beginning say south of Chouteau, west of Eighteenth street and north of Franklin. Here in Washington the young trees are protected by stout but cheap wooden guards and the older ones by poultry wiring.

If St. Louis were thoroughly planted with sycamores, in 10 years it would rival in attractiveness any city in the world.

I do not believe a single man, woman or child in St. Louis would fail to applaud and welcome this tree planting and its attending cheap cost.

G. H. REID.

Good Effect of Woman Suffrage.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A visitor from Mars would think to hear all the eloquent talk about woman's sphere and how the mere right to vote would work havoc with it and her home duties, that the average man spends most of his time in the study of politics, social problems, duties of citizenship, etc. As a matter of fact, a great majority of the voters between the ages of 21 and 30 know more about sport than they do of the principles they vote for. It is doubtful whether any of the voters average one hour per week in the earnest study of our most vital problems or how to vote intelligently, whereas if the female members of the family could vote it would stimulate much-needed discussion and study, as the average man would, or should, be ashamed to have his wife or daughter know more than himself of the principles involved. It certainly seems wrong that millions of good, intelligent mothers have no say in legislation that affects the well-being of their boys and girls while hordes of the male dregs of society are allowed to decide for them.

Sex should be no barrier, but there should be some educational qualification required from all.

CELTIC-AMERICAN.

Interdependence of the Sexes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The consensus of opinion on the subject of equal suffrage seems to be just what Clark McAdams indicated in last evening's Post-Dispatch: no objection to it except in the quarters where the suffragette has made man believe that he opposes it. A woman's civic status is superior to man's now, in view of her exemption from direct taxation and jury duty. She is protected by law in this unequal-suffrage state fully as much morally and physiologically as her sister in an equal suffrage state. Men see too clearly that enfranchising woman would simply double the vote. The woman employee is as readily subjected to her employer's dominance as the man, the unemployed child is no more the same as the man in her social class, and the vote will not of itself give woman economic independence, nor make for greater civic righteousness than she now succeeds in effecting by the potential power of her disappearance.

In the states where equal suffrage is lawful, no effort has been made to emancipate the scullery maid from drudgery in the darkness of her kitchen and the social stigma of her occupation, nor to decrease the width of the chasm between the social secretary of Mrs. Gold and the telephone operator. The vote is important, it really lessens the potentiality of woman's influence.

The suffragette points with pride to the achievement of the nurse on the battlefield. She does not seem to see that the relation between man and woman on the battlefield is not independence, nor dependence of one upon the other, but interdependence of related vocations, of special vocations for each sex. When woman can call some certain vocations "woman's work," and other vocations "man's work," and no longer compete with man in man's work nor be economically dependent upon a man employer or her father, husband, brother or son for everything she wishes to do, she will truly be equal with man because interdependent with him economically. A demand for equal suffrage should embody the thought of economic independence of masculine dominance—special vocations thoroughly controlled by woman.

Why Not Include Women?

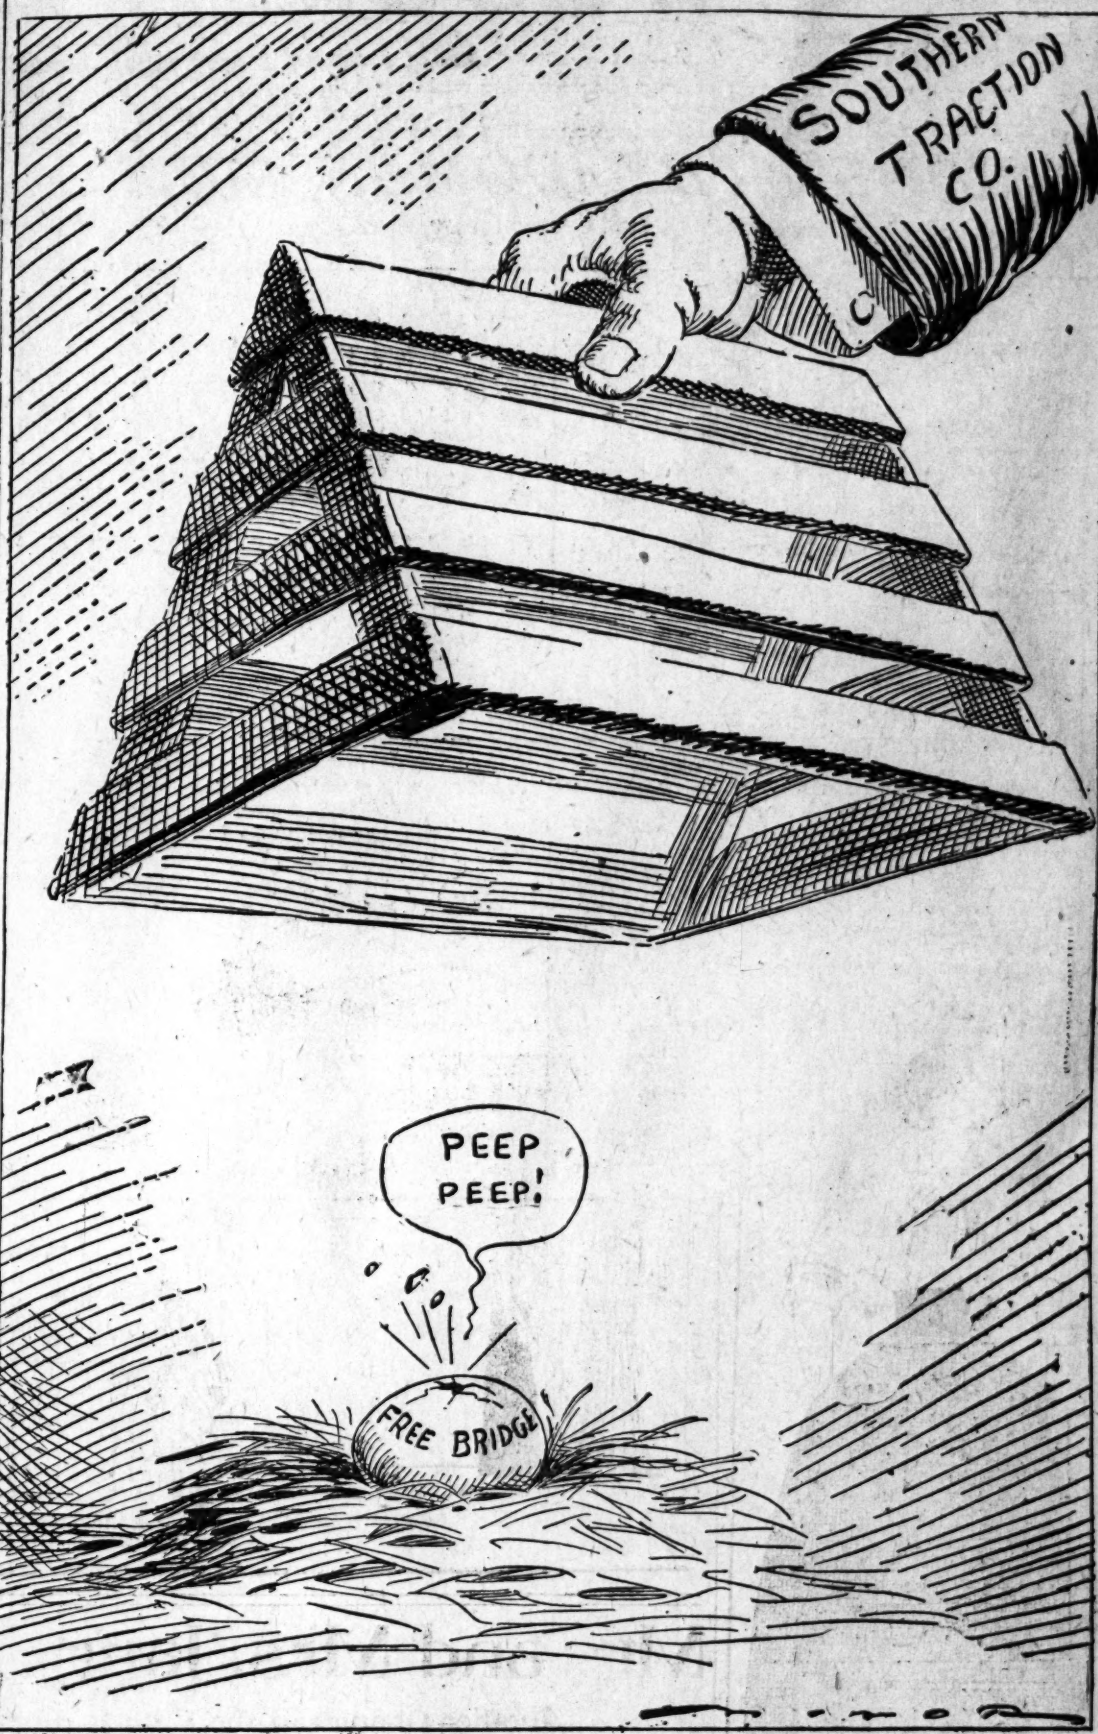

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I read in the Post-Dispatch that a collection of photographs of men who have achieved civic distinction either in the professions or commercially in St. Louis, would be presented by Mr. Straus to the public library as a memorial.

This is good, but I wish to inquire why not women's photographs likewise? I am sure he has a large number of portraits made by him in the last 20 years of women whose lives have been of almost equal importance with those of men in the upbuilding of our city. Why should not their memories and faces be perpetuated in the same manner? I am sure the board of the library would consent.

If I am not speaking for myself, I would not be included in such a classification were the conditions of selection ever so liberal. Suggest this to Mr. Straus, please.

BURBANKING A BOY.

From the New York World.
Luther Burbank, the California plant wizard, is said to be undertaking the task of transforming young Don Millar of Pasadena from "an irresponsible lad, given to roving and playing truant, to a normal person."

Waiving the point whether the roving truant is not really a more normal boy than the well-behaved little old man poor Donald is fated to become, this experiment will be watched with interest. It is unaccountable why Mr. Burbank has long neglected boys. Improving that crop is surely as important as grafting the briar-rose on the skunk cabbage to improve the odor or producing a blend of the peach and the Hubbard squash.

If Mr. Burbank had a thousand years to work in and legal authority to kill off all but the selected specimens, as he can do with plants in his experimental garden, he might reduce all young mankind to a grateful level of Little Rolo and Gentle Janes, none of whom would ever tear or soil their clothes or use ungrammatical language or fail to grow up to be ornaments to society.

But first let us see how Don Millar turns out. A whole world of flawless boys and girls might not gain in interest upon the present happy-go-lucky plan, under which un-Burbanked children often grow up more like weeds than like plants carefully trained in long, orderly rows.

How They Began.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Colonel gave a sharp glance across the border. A wavy line of blue smoke was lazily rising behind the trees. He thrust his field glasses into their case and, turning to his orderly, issued a command.

A moment later a column of stern-featured men came swinging across the open space that fronted the camp. Countermarching rapidly, they reduced formation from fours to twos and swept down on the mess tent.

A rattle of tin cups and the dull swish of coffee arose on the warm air. The maneuvers had commenced.

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

MR. ANTWINE ON THE ARMY MANEUVERS.

HAVING read very carefully for two weeks all the newspapers and weeklies passing through the Bald Knob postoffice, Mr. Antwine was finally prepared to announce a conclusion.

"It appears," he said, "that we are mobilizing the army on the Rio Grande for the protection in Mexico of American financial interests which Mr. Morgan and others are unwilling to expose to the adventures of war. If this is true, it strikes me that the cost of the maneuvers ought to be borne by the persons who have these interests. We will otherwise establish a precedent which will justify any American with a foreign investment, no matter where it is, in calling upon us to protect it. This sort of thing would very soon have the army and navy as badly scattered as are those of Great Britain, and, like them, they would impose upon us a terrible burden. Some distinction might be made between large investments and small ones, but we would have to be consistent, and would probably find it necessary to issue a rating card. For instance, basing the schedule upon the Mexican incident, a billion-dollar investment is entitled to 20,000 troops, whereas a half billion would get only 10,000, a quarter billion only 5,000, and so on down to the smaller investments which would be entitled to only one or two soldiers."

"It would seem to one not occupying the Wall street-Washington point of view that any investment outside our own country should be made at the investor's risk, but this is not in harmony with that individualism without which we are told that we cannot continue to grow and prosper. If an individual can make money on the island of Fiji while the nation as a whole is losing money safeguarding his investment, it still encourages business. This is a strange philosophy, but it has made a lot of poor people, and the more poor people there are the more individualism there is. What I think we should do is to have the country determine before one of these investments is made whether it can afford it or not. Mr. Morgan, for instance, could tell us what he proposes doing. If we think we can stand it, all right. If not, we will say so. The trouble with Mr. Morgan and his ambitious plan for making us the richest country in the world is that he has all the resources and we haven't any of them."

SELF PRESERVATION.

There is a railroad running out of St. Louis which is rather springy in its improvements. A number of city people have country homes along the line, and the other day one of these was entertaining a friend from the city. They were looking over the place when they came to several long rows of young trees.

"What are these?" the visitor asked.
"Catalpas,"
"What are they for?"

"Test?"

"Yes."
"Do you mean to say that you raise tea for the market?"
"No—that is not exactly. You know the railroad along here needs ties very badly, and despairing of getting them any other way, we people who live along the route have decided to raise our own. These are to serve in front of my place. The idea is that if everybody along the route does this we will be able in a few years to put the railroad in very good shape."

Horrors! Women to Wear Trousers?

Inventor of the Hussar Costume Repudiates the Harem Skirt and Warns Women in an Interview for the Post-Dispatch.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

AFTER the harem skirt—what? Trousers, hideous, unsightly, inartistic trousers, says Mrs. Alma Webster Powell. And after trousers? Knickerbockers! answers the same oracle. And after knickerbockers? "After knickerbockers, the deluge overwhelming every quality of modesty and charm and sweetness associated with the name of woman!" "Aha!" exclaims the reader with the long memory. "Is not this the very same Mrs. Alma Webster Powell who invented the hussar costume—precursor of the harem skirt?" Echo answers—"Aha!" and also—"Yes, the very same."

But just as a father may disown a wayward son, so Mrs. Powell, still arrayed in her black satin hussar costume, rises to denounce the harem skirt, which she claims is a degenerate sport from the parent stem.

"I am disgusted—utterly disgusted—with newspaper clippings I receive from all over the country which criticize me as the mother of that harem horror!" exclaimed the handsome Mrs. Powell. "Why, in one Western city I was denounced by name from the pulpit, and a friend of mine who lives in Trieste, Austria, wrote to me the other day,

Are We Coming to This?

saying: 'Your costume, the harem skirt, has arrived in Trieste via Paris, and is now being worn in our streets.' THAT do you think of that? I design a costume for women which I intended to be more modest, more dignified than the modern gown, and it is taken up and distorted and made into something unbecoming and hideous at the same time. You see my costume now. It is simply a long coat to the ankles, buttoned from top to hem over bloomers which are always concealed and which I wear because I consider them more hygienic than skirts.

"But is there anything about the long coat always buttoned which suggests a harem skirt?"

There was not. Frankly, Mrs. Powell looks very pretty and not unduly daring in her hussar costume. She has cut her long black hair and now wears it in loose curls about her head, which was bound yesterday with a wide fillet of dull red and gold. When France, just after the revolution, went crazy about everything Roman and changed the names of the months to Thermidor, Fructidor, etc., the women contributed to the classical revival by wearing their hair just as Mrs. Powell does. Coiffure à la Titus, they called it then.

"BUT your costume has bloomers, practically harem trousers," I reminded Mrs. Powell.

"But always hidden. I wear them for convenience and I believe all women will eventually follow my example," Mrs. Powell answered. "The knell of the petticoat has sounded. But that does not mean that we must borrow the costume of the harem. Why should we take the clothes of those poor harem slaves any more than their morals?"

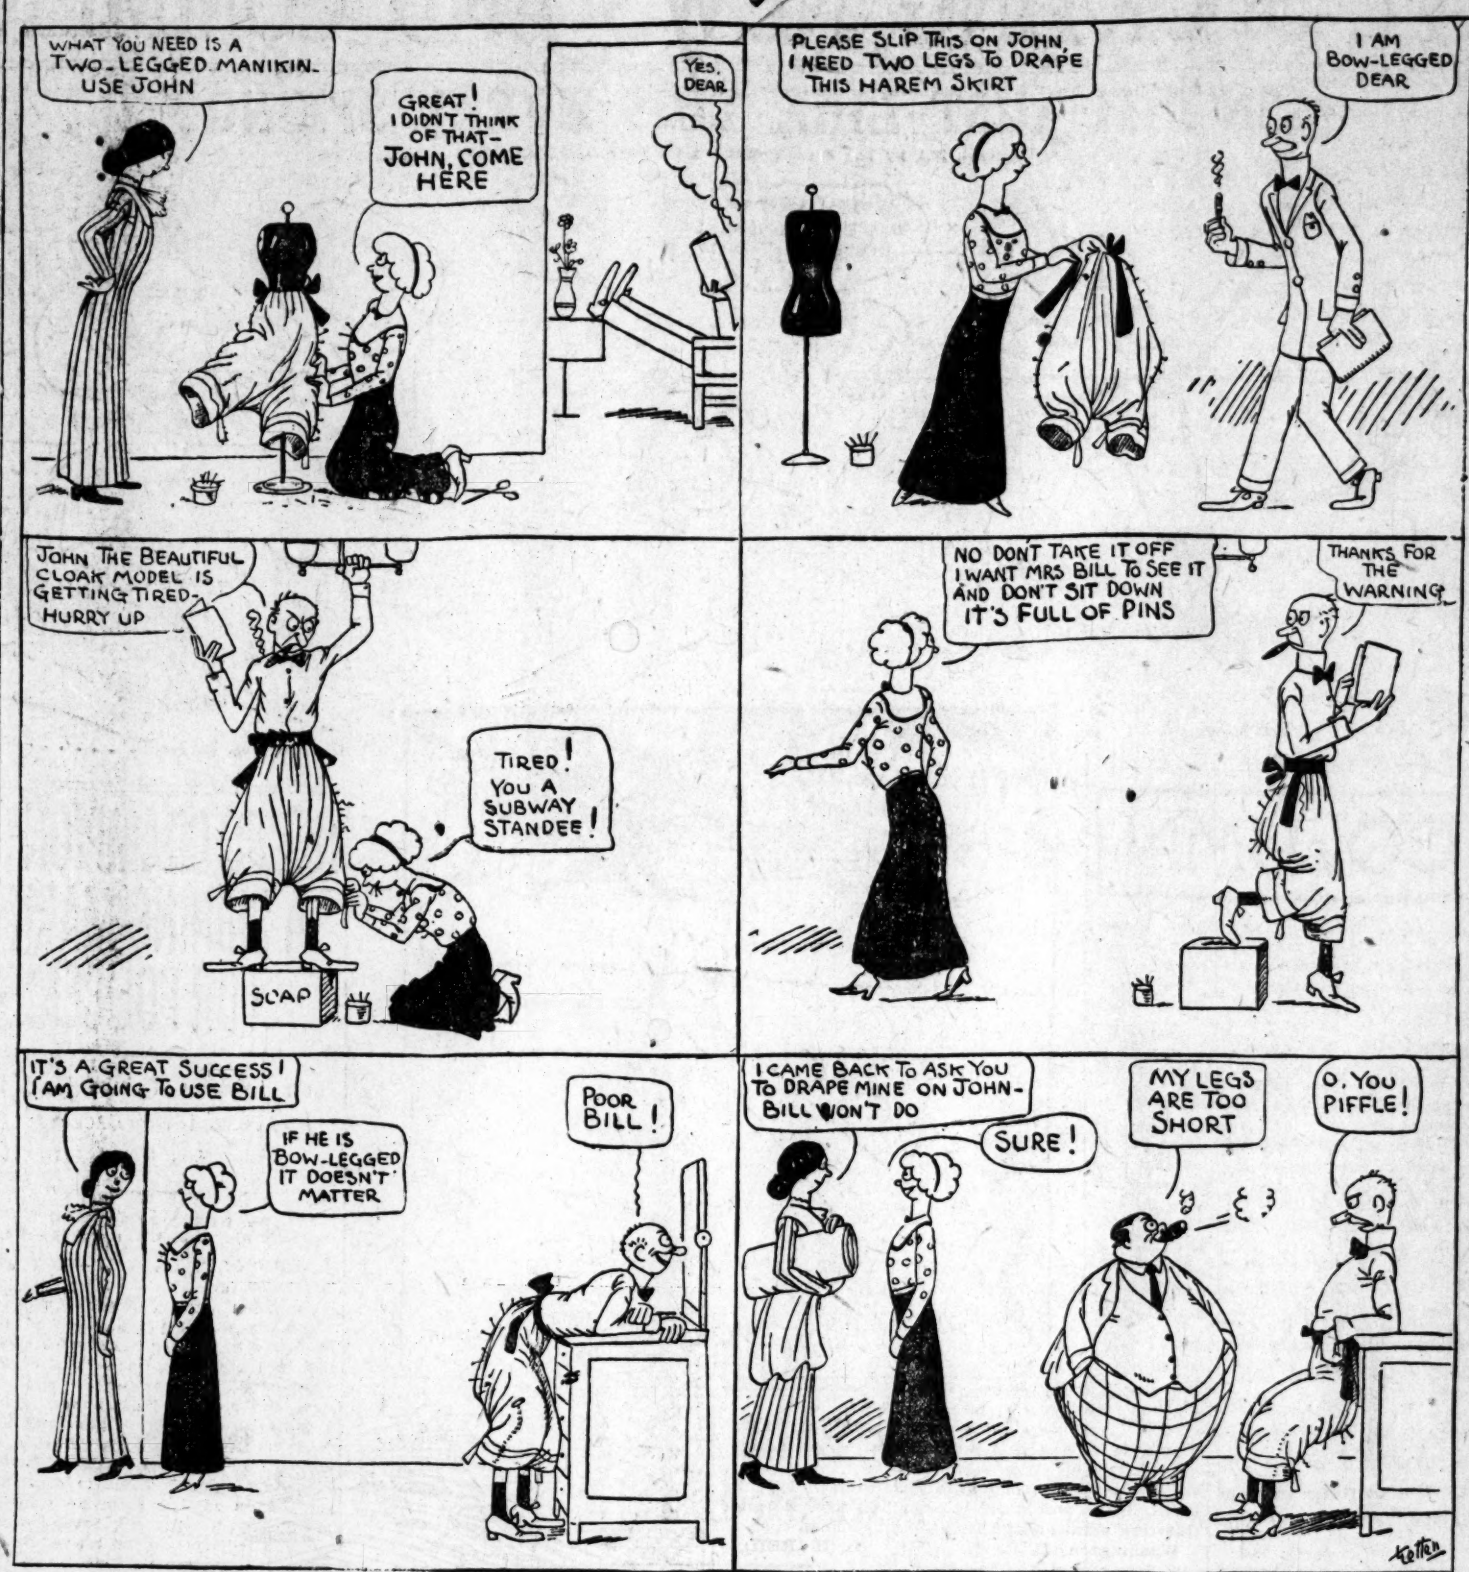

"You wrote some time ago that with the divided skirt of the harem we should, to be consistent, have the divided trousers as well. I quite agree with you. Why should women imitate men? I supposed, because the poor things associate the idea of liberty with masculinity and masculinity with trousers. But you know that men wear skirts in certain parts of the world and are none the less dominant for that. If we are going to ape men," Mrs. Powell suggested, "why not cultivate their virtues, their frankness, their broadmindedness, their loyalty to each other, instead of merely trying to steal their trousers?"

"MARRK my words, if the harem skirt is morally adopted by women, a few years from now will see our sex in trousers. And is there anything in the world more hideous than trousers, two semicircular cylinders

Another Chapter in the Entertainment of That Recovered Friend, Dinkston.

Written for the Post-Dispatch By Roy L. McCardell.

"HEY, wake up there!" said Mr. Jarr, and he poked Mr. Dinkston in the ribs.

"I guess we'll have to get him on the sofa," Mr. Jarr said to Mrs. Jarr. "You know he is no friend of mine. Why, I never even remembered the man. We met him on the street and you introduced him to me and said he was an old beau, and you invited him to call."

"I said 'some time,'" whispered Mrs. Jarr. "That's what we say to people just to be polite. Do you think I would have invited HIM to call to see ME if I thought he'd come? I didn't even tell him where we lived, and I can't imagine how he found out. Of course, you tell me because he was very fond of me when I was a young girl. I cared nothing for him. Am I responsible for his going to ruin because I refused him? But it isn't all my fault. His being here, I mean. You made him welcome. You let him drink!"

"What was I to do? Throw him out?" asked Mr. Jarr. "And I didn't let him have anything to drink. You did. He said he was afraid of typhoid in drinking water and that started it."

"He is your friend. Do I have friends like that?" replied Mrs. Jarr, eyeing the sleeper with disgust. "I had to send the children to bed, and now it looks as though this person is to be upon our hands forever! Now, I will never say a word against Mrs. Stryver again when she puts on airs. Mrs. Stryver says that it is the greatest mistake in the world to try to be kind to poor relations or unfortunate friends. They are never grateful and they only get you into trouble and humiliate and embarrass you. I wouldn't have had the children see such things for the world. You that you will avoid your Dinkstons in the future."

"I tell you it was your fault," said Mr. Jarr angrily. "I would have never invited him here. He's a hobo, that's what he is. He was a friend of yours. Oh, don't say you did not remember him! When I told you who he was you remembered him all right," said Mrs. Jarr. "But I pass up Henry. I disown Dinkston."

"Why didn't you do it when he came here tonight? What business had he to call? How dare he call? And why

How Thou Mayst Carry Thy Burden

Written for the Post-Dispatch By Ethelyn Huston.

YOU remember the old fable of the weary pilgrim, whose burden became more than he thought he could bear?

He stopped by the roadside and prayed the Powers to aid him. They told him he could exchange his burden for that of any other pilgrim he wished, and he gladly proceeded to examine the pack of each who toiled past him on the long pilgrimage.

But each pack he turned from. His own burden was heavy, but in the end he turned and strapped it to his shoulders again. After all, the other burdens were worse!

There is a woman I know who was a happy woman until a few years ago. Then her husband died. Not long after her boy—her only child—died. And in two days her mother, broken-hearted, followed the boy. The home was broken up and the woman is alone, and she grieves by day and by night. The pain in her heart is physical—an ache that never leaves her.

"It is more than I can bear!" she told me.

I know another woman. She is the said, "I have known Edward Jarr since childhood's happy hour."

"Never mind about your fondest hopes decaying again, or the dear gazelle that charmed you with its soft, dark eyes. You best it! I'll furnish transportation," said Mr. Jarr. "Ah, he fears the revelations I would make, gentle lady!" said the visitor. "Let me tell you the story of my past and then judge between this man and me," rambled Dinkston. "I could a tale unfold."

"Let him speak, unless you are afraid he knows too much about you!" said Mrs. Jarr sharply.

And what Mr. Dinkston said will be continued in our next.

An Inheritance Worth While

The man who side-steps his duty to his body, who snatches a hasty lunch, in his effort to be always on the job and catch the other fellow napping, may come out ahead in the game for dollars, but at a large personal cost.

In these days of hustle he is wise who makes his meals of foods that are little waste and most nourishment. That are digested easily. That do not overtax the physical and nervous centers.

Food made entirely from the most nutritious and healthful ingredients, food that gives the least effort of digestion. Faust brand Spaghetti is made in a wholesome, modern, sanitary factory. Love and Courtesy

Written for the Post-Dispatch By Betty Vincent.

When You Love Him.

MY dear girls, when you love one man enough to promise to marry him you should be prepared to give up the attentions of other men.

You have no idea of the number of young men who write me in distress because their fiancées won't decline to see other callers and to give up all the little frivolities in which they indulged before they were engaged.

Take this letter, for example, which I received only this morning. The young man writes:

"I have been engaged for over a year to a girl, but she refuses to announce our engagement because she says other men will cease to call upon her. In the meanwhile two and three men drop in to see her each evening, and in consequence I seldom or never have a chance to talk alone to the girl I am going to marry."

Need I make any comment on this young girl's behavior? I only hope that all the others like her will read her fiancé's letter and that it will be a lesson to them.

Admires Others.

A girl and she says she loves me. But when I introduce her to men of my acquaintance she always finds something to admire in them, too. She seems to think they are all alike. Now, do you think she would feel this way about others if she liked me?

No matter how much the young lady loves you, that is no reason why she should not like other men. She probably has a kindly, sweet disposition and will make a far better wife than a woman who cannot see good in any one.

'Stamp Language.'

PL writes: "I have been corresponding for some time with a certain young man, and every time he writes he puts the stamps on the envelopes in a different way. Please tell me the stamp language, as this puzzles me."

There is no "stamp language" of which I know, and to place stamps on an envelope in any but the conventional manner is considered bad form.

Tells Parents.

E know escorts me home from work almost every evening. But whenever I go to another man or pause to speak to anyone he tells my parents about it. Do you think he should do this?"

The young man has no right to discuss your actions with your parents, and you should speak to him about it. If he does not cease to do so I should drop his acquaintance.

None Like It Served in Rome

Italian cooks are famed the world over for a certain style of spaghetti.

But never has Rome served such delicious spaghetti as our chefs have prepared for you.

The dish as we make it contains 17 ingredients. Two years have been spent in learning how to combine them.

The wonder lies in the harmony of flavor. No other cooks in the world produce anything like it.

We use in the making:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The recipe is secret, and no price could buy it. But your grocer has the dish complete, all ready-cooked for you.

It costs you less than to make it yourself if the recipe were yours.

Just heat it or bake it, as you like it best. There's nothing else to do.

When you serve it for dinner don't say where you got it. Wait for the comments on the "jewel of a cook."

But be sure of this: No other spaghetti will ever appeal to those who once taste this.

Order it now, before other folks know it. Your grocer has just put it in.

WALLACE KEELY
TO WIN ARGUMENT
FOR SEVEN GAMES

Browns' Manager May Ask Leader Bresnahan Not to Play Postponed Contest.

BOSSSES HOLD CONFERENCE

But Roddy and Roger Fail to Announce What Transpires at Their Talk-Fest.

Roger Says Browns
Look Stronger Than

They Did Year Ago

ALTHOUGH sadly beaten in the inaugural of the series, the Browns were paid a high tribute by Manager Roger Bresnahan of the Cardinals Sunday. Here's what he had to say to the Post-Dispatch about Manager Wallace Keely's team.

"I saw the Browns in action only once last year; but on what they showed then and what they did Saturday, even though they were beaten, they proved that they are stronger than in 1910. Then, I don't suppose Wallace had his strongest team in the field. With Laporte and Austin in his lineup, I imagine the Browns would be a whole lot stronger.

"This Joe Lake must be a great pitcher. Although beaten, he wasn't so bad Saturday. 'Nig' Clarke, too, is one of the best catchers in the country. He throws with the best of them. But the Browns just didn't get the breaks and couldn't win. With luck transferred, the Cardinals would probably have been beaten."

The postponement of Sunday's scheduled game between the Browns and Cardinals may enable Manager Roddy Wallace of the American League team to win his point for a seven-game series. It is possible the deferred contest will not be played at all.

Wallace had held out for a seven-game series from the start, while Manager Roger Bresnahan of the Cardinals was eager to mix in a nine-game affair. They compromised by agreeing to play eight games. As the next of the series of battles is not scheduled until next Saturday, it means that the postponed game, if it is played, will be crowded in between April 1 and April 3.

That is unlikely, however, as other contests are to be played next Sunday and the following Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, with the final game April 9. Wallace and Bresnahan held a short conference Sunday, but failed to announce what had been agreed to playing.

Wallace Prefers Other Practice. It is pretty well known that Wallace prefers to have his players practice among themselves than to have them engage in the series with the National League. For that reason, if Bresnahan doesn't pin him down to playing, the little Scot will likely be willing to let Sunday's postponed contest go by the boards.

The Sportsman's Park management didn't decide to call off Sunday's game until well after 2 o'clock. It had stopped raining at that time, but the condition of the field would not permit the playing of the game. The Cardinals donned their uniforms and went to Sportsman's Park, expecting to play, but were forced to return to their own home.

Manager Bresnahan was not included in the Cardinals party in uniform. The Duke worked hard Saturday and was pretty well tired out. He crawled in the hay early Saturday night and didn't arise until about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. He planned to use Jack Bliss in Sunday's game and to direct his team in citizen's clothes from the bench.

Roger Off for Cleveland. Accompanied by Treasurer Herman D. Seekamp of the Cardinals, Manager Bresnahan departed at 8 o'clock Sunday night for Cleveland to attend the funeral Monday afternoon of President M. Stanley Robison of the club, who died last Friday. Bresnahan and Seekamp will officiate as pallbearers.

While Roger said he would make an effort to be in St. Louis Tuesday, it is probable that he will be detained in the Forest City to confer and advise the relatives of Mr. Robison over the disposition of the club.

Mr. Robison will have been made public as yet, but it is believed that he will leave the baseball property to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank De Haas Robison and her daughter, Mrs. Schuyler Britton. It is probable that they will not care to continue to own the club. During Roger's absence Miller Huggins will be in charge of the Cardinals' practice at League Park. Because of their need of batting practice, the players will probably discontinue the contests and will devote most of their time to hitting.

BRESNAHAN BEGINS

ISN'T IT JUST LIKE THIS EVERY SPRING?

WRAY'S COLUMN

NEXT to taking the hurdle over the center span of the bridge, the quickest way to commit suicide seems to be to have a positive opinion on the result of the spring series.

They were only a few fans kind enough not to say, "I told you so," after Saturday's game.

Pittsburgh May Win. S. T. LOUIS has been figuring on a pendant in the intercity three-cushion billiard league race, but it's by no means a certainty the local team is out of the woods. The last game on the local schedule was played Saturday night, completing a list of 42 games, the Mount City bunch having won 29 and lost 13 games. Pittsburgh has still more games to play and has lost two less than St. Louis. At the rate Wireback has been traveling it is probable that nobody around the circuit can furnish sufficient opposition. Wireback won 14 straight games and neither New York nor Boston, two of the three places he will visit before the Private schedule ends, has a capable player. Lauterback of Brooklyn is the "hope" of Peterson. He is the only man Wireback will encounter who seems able to make a showing.

Apparently it only takes one game of a spring series to settle the respective merits as between any two baseball clubs. If you think not, conceive a nice opinion about the Browns' playing, and then step down on Broadway and mention it. Note—Be sure you're a 10-second man first.

And still they continue to refer to that Carl Morris-Mike Schreck thing as a "fight."

A Real College Team. T. LOUIS an Ed Cochrane's put football on the map in St. Louis. It now appears that Johnny Bender is to serve in the same capacity, as regards university baseball. Bender was himself a professional player of no mean ability. This year he has out one of the strongest college nines in the West, as the team's work against the All-Professionals in practice games will attest.

Tips and Cues

Biederman and Fuller will meet in the three-cushion billiard tournament game at Peterson's Monday night. Francis is the present tourney leader with seven games won and none lost.

Johnny Layton, State champion pool player, is still setting the pace in the three-cushion billiard tournament, at the Rex. Layton has won six games and lost one. Botto and Moore clash Monday night.

Peterson vs. Cockwell and Carter vs. Fisher is the House three-cushion billiard tournament schedule for Monday. Roberts and Austin each have perfect records up to date. They have played five games and won all of them.

Dalton and Hoffman will clash in the Class A three-cushion billiard tournament game at the Grand Monday night. Dodd and Rolf are tied for the lead, each man having won five games and lost one. Skinski and Nelson will meet in the business men's straight rail billiard match at the Grand Monday. Vornbrock is the present leader in this competition with five games won and one lost.

Dolph and Nelson will furnish the pool tournament match at the Rex Monday. Francis is setting the pace with seven games won and none lost.

PARISH SCHOOL BOYS
PLAY EIGHT GAMES

Following are the results of the games played by the teams of the Parochial School Baseball League, as preliminaries to the championship contests: St. Michael 10, St. Matthew 6; St. Vincent 10, St. Wenceslaus 7; Visitation 14, St. Rose 6; St. James 11, Perpetual Help 10; Notre Dame 5, Blessed Sacrament 6; St. Leo 9, SS. Peter and Paul 7; Holy Trinity 9, Rock Church 4; The St. Teresa-Holy Trinity game was postponed by consent while the St. Bridget-St. Mark contest was unplayed. St. Malachi's team is also a member of the league.

In Tony Stadtherr and Burns, Bender has two clever, hardy pitchers, and the Tiger and Jayhawk visitors this year will see something new in the line of baseball on their trips.

SINCE the death of M. Stanley Robison fans seem to think that the logical future of the club is a St. Louis ownership. Just why the heirs will not find it quite as profitable to hold to their shares is not clear. For at least twelve months Mr. Robison had left the handling of the team's affairs to the other officers of the club, and to Bresnahan. There's not the slightest reason in the world to believe that he can not continue just as successfully in the future. As the club proved a big paying investment last year, it seems unlikely that the stock will be for sale, and the chances are that Schuyler Britton will be the club's next president are strong.

Wrestlers Last Better. If spring games were any criterion, the Cubs would play an important part in the bottom of the National League race this year.

QUEST about wrestling and prize fighting—the most exciting sports of the two, physically, causes less wear and tear in the long run. Boxing, in most cases, is a joke compared to the physical strain put upon the contestants in a wrestling match. Only a few muscles are affected in boxing, and few pangs are experienced, but wrestling is a strain on every sinew.

In spite of this, many mat stars retain their physical supremacy beyond the forty-year mark. Here's Max Luttbeg, for example, who Sunday outwrestled a heavier and much younger man and conquered after over two and one-half hours of continuous effort.

Yet there's more punishment to the man who is forced to get out of a hammer-lock or a toe-hold than in a knock-out. Fighters last ten or twelve years in the ring, if they behave.

Wrestlers last thirty. Max Luttbeg has been fifteen years a champion and has been twenty years in the game. It's hard to figure, but the facts are there.

Max Luttbeg, champion lightweight wrestler, defeated Tim McCarthy in their match at the St. Louis Rowing Club Sunday afternoon. The first bout went 2 hours and 38 minutes and the second 4 minutes.

Luttbeg was not called upon to use any of his punishing holds. On several occasions he stood McCarthy on his head and held him there for a minute or two, but that was the limit. Luttbeg left the ring with more marks on his face than McCarthy.

In the first round, after it had been announced that there was a difference of 11 pounds in the weight of the men, McCarthy having the advantage, Harry Sharpe called the men out to examine them. McCarthy had neglected to visit a manicurist for several weeks and Sharpe ordered him back to his corner for a going over at the hands of one of his seconds.

NEGRO CHAMPION
A SHINING MARK
FOR POLICEMEN

Jack Johnson Thinks He'd Be Arrested for Backing His Car.

By ROBERT EDGREN. A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Well, well, he's in again.

Champion Jack Johnson just can't make his machine behave. And this time he's in jail for 25 days for speeding in the Golden Gate Park of San Francisco. Judge Treadwell, wearying of seeing Jack peel off hundred-dollar bills to pay fines, finally gave him time to think it over. Jack's lawyers are trying to appeal the case. Notice! Every time Jack's name is mentioned there is a lawyer somewhere in the background or the foreground—some times a whole firm of lawyers. And yet people wonder if Johnson will ever have to fight again.

Johnson has two troubles. The first is that he just loves to shove 'er wild open and let 'er rip. And the other is that policemen have developed a fondness for arresting him. It makes a cop feel fine and chesty to lay hands on the man Jeffries couldn't lick and drag him ignominiously to jail. Jack mournfully remarked to me once that New York police would arrest him for speeding if he was backing up.

Johnson must be a pretty good driver, for as far as I know he has never had a serious accident. And he has been trundling a car around the country ever since he beat Tommy Burns. He thinks that auto driving is the best kind of training for his peculiar style of boxing and blocking. Handling the big steering wheel develops his arms, and Johnson fights with his arms more than any other fighter in the ring.

Others use legs and body muna more than Johnson. The champion depends upon the great strength of his arms, which are tremendously thick and heavy in proportion to his torso.

A Real Clever Heavyweight. Jim Savage, who put Moran out of the "white hope" class and who boxed Maxson tonight at the Olympic, is the cleverest heavyweight in sight just now. He has perfected a style that he originally picked up while training Bob Fitzsimmons years ago. Funny lots of men learned the bareknuckle art of fighting from that same Fitzsimmons. McCoy began in Fitzsimmons' camp as a combination dishwasher and sparring partner. Jeffries learned the best part of his boxing from Fitzsimmons. Joe Gans saw Fitzsimmons spar when Joe was beginning his first career, and he followed Fitz around the country, studied him in his exhibitions and copied his style as closely as he could.

But to go back to Savage—he has become a very likely heavyweight. He is fast, very clever and a very hard hit. He works in close and hits short. There is no real light on his fighting ability. He fought as a middleweight for two or three years, making some very good fights and some rotten ones. He had chronic appendicitis and was unable to endure a body blow. A year ago he was successfully operated upon, and now seems to have grown to be as strong as he used to be. He weighs thirty pounds more, and it is all muscle.

If Savage can stand his share of hammering—and a few fights will show that—he ought to have a good chance with any of the "white hopes" now in the ring—and perhaps with the black ones. Just at present, however, the "white hope" crop is easy picking.

Old Joe Sugden Has
Handled a Million
Balls in 17 Years

DURING the 17 years that Joe Sugden, the Tigers' battery tutor, has crouched behind the plate, it is estimated that he has caught more than 1,000,000 pitched balls. His hands are gnarled where the fast ones have tipped him, but he is still able to handle the big mitt with all the old dexterity that made him one of the best backstops in his day.

Figuring on 100 games a season, which is a fair record for a catcher, and 125 pitched balls a game, Sugden caught at least 12,500 pitched balls in regular games. Then there is the immense amount of receiving the catcher is obliged to do in practice.

The other evening several of the Tiger players spent considerable time figuring out just how many balls Joe Sugden had stopped in his career as a professional baseball player. Oscar Stange, with paper and pencil, figured out that the number of received balls would total 1,000,000 or more. Old Joe himself said he had no idea how many balls he had stopped, but he said he guessed he caught a ball lot full of them.

FORBES MAY TAKE TRIP TO ENGLAND

CHICAGO, March 28.—A victory or draw against Johnny Coulton at Kenosha, Wis., Tuesday, will assure Harry Forbes a trip to London. Of course, the former bantamweight champion's going depends altogether on his showing with Coulton.

Hugh McIntosh, in behalf of Digger Stanley, has had his eye on the coming bout ever since it was announced. His first effort was made to Coulton and later in communication with Howard Carr he made equally as good a proposal for Forbes if he gets as good as a draw out of next week's fight.

Forbes will be able to make the weight agreed on, 115 pounds at 6 o'clock. The local boy weighs around 115 now and will take the rest off in his training. He worked six rounds yesterday two each with Billy Wagner, Freddy Whittingham and Tommy Daly.

SCRATCH TENPIN
TEAM TO BOWL
MONDAY EVENING

Millers Are Down to Perform Tonight in City Championship Race.

The Duffys, Millers and Cabannes, the best five-men tenpin bowling teams in the city, will roll their games in the annual city competition in the 9:15 squad on the new Washington avenue alleys, Monday evening. The Millers are the scratch team of the city tournament. The Duffys are former Middle West and city champions.

The Duffys have an average of 800 pins per game for the season. Medals are offered for the team making the best scratch score and also the best handicap totals. The Millers, captained by Jules Schmitt, has no hopes of finishing first in the handicap competition but want to roll the best scratch total which will get each man on the five a gold disk.

Two squads of five-men teams will bowl Monday night, the first being scheduled for 7 o'clock. Abe Langtry of Milwaukee, one of the best known bowling men in the country, and secretary of the American Bowling Congress for a number of years, is in St. Louis and is much interested in the Monday night bowling.

Pitts High Man. Individuals and two-men teams occupied the runs Sunday. P. Pitts cracked out the best score in the individual event when he bowled 200, 215 and 197 for a total of 612. This should land Pitts well to the front if Secretary Dennis Sweeney, C. W. Turner, Guy Burkart and other men who are trying to figure out the handicaps, ever catch up with the procession. It is impossible to figure the handicaps on the five-men teams until the squads step on the alleys, as each team stands in a list of from six to ten men, and nobody knows just which men will bowl until the bell rings.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

BUYERS LIFT THE PRICES OF THE LATE MARKET

Trading Is Quiet, but Closing Shows Fairly Wide Gains.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The buying was slightly better than the selling in the late market and prices touched the high point of the day. Canadian Pacific was lifted to a new high record above 221, and other Canadian issues and the Hill stocks were firm. The close was inactive and firm around the high level of the day.

The stock market was quiet and steady at the noon hour. Prices moved up slowly and the leaders averaged a fraction above Saturday's closing. Speculation was light, however, and confined to the "tic" traders. The trading opened with prices practically unchanged in Wall Street Monday. London market was higher on the leading issues, but without influence here. Comments of the Sunday newspapers were conservative, but generally bullish, owing to the fact that the markets, the favorable crop outlook and several "rest" days that had been observed. Of the former the approaching session of Congress is the most important, and it is hardly likely that the session can pass without severe criticism of the tariff question by the Democratic members. The President's message will be awaited with interest. Indications are that it will be short and sweet and confined closely to the recommendation of the reciprocity treaty.

The Mexican political situation shows little change, and will remain a disturbing factor in market affairs for some time to come. The Russo-Chinese differences seem in a fair way of immediate settlement, on a very comparative good showing for this season.

The market closed strong. Trading became livelier in the last hour and there was decided improvement. The rise started in Canadian Pacific and soon extended to other issues. The market was again increased for the fortnightly period. The bank statement made a comparatively good showing for this season.

SAINT ANTONIO, Tex., March 25.—Rainfall in Texas has been unusual for the past three months and one of the peculiar things is a heavy downpour in those sections where rain has been very light for a number of years. The Texas Valley country has received the heaviest fall of rain so far known in the history of that section the past 24 hours, breaking all records. It is believed by those who have had wide experience in the work that the cultivation of tracts in various places in the valley and unusual evaporation caused small irrigation plants is responsible for a change in moisture condition.
